Rommel Thrust Across Egypt Border Reported Broken Up, Troops Retreat.

BULLETIN

(By Associated Press)

Russia's Red armies acknowledged a grave new threat to Moscow today, while on the North African front the British reported that imperial mechanized columns "are forging their way westward" from the Rezegh battle zone, south of Tobruk.

A Cairo communique said British and New Zealand troops which yesterday "made direct contact" southeast of Tobruk were slowly beating the Germans and Italians back in a drive apparently aimed at extending communications and supply through Tobruk itself.

Units of Gen. Erwin Rommel's German North African corps, which attempted a diversion thrust across the Egyptian border, were declared to have been scattered and now to be trying "to rejoin Axis forces engaged in battle west of Rezegh."

Rezegh is 10 miles south of Tobruk.

British Middle East headquarters said the Axis armies were putting up "determined opposition," but indicated that the trend of battle was slowly developing in British favor.

In the Russo-German war, Soviet reports said Adolf Hitler's invasion armies before Moscow were suffering "tremendous" losses, with as many as 15,500 Germans killed in a single day.

He Knows What It Is 'to Hang on For Dear Life'

TOLEDO, O. —(UP)— Everett LeFever, a telephone company employe, grasped two horizontal pipes in a life-or-death grip for more than 15 minutes yesterday as he hung suspended in a shaft three stories high in the City Safety building.

He finally succeeded in attracting the attention of Kathryn Lovett, an apprentice in the city law office, who sat only three feet away from the endangered man unaware of his plight.

She summoned a fellow workman who rescued him.

Le Fever was one of a crew engaged in installation of a new telephone system in the building. A ladder on which he was standing slipped.

County's 1-A Draft Lists Get Smaller

Some Sections Turn to Deferred Men; Enough Here for 3 Months.

While selective service boards in a number of Ohio cities are turning to previously deferred men for enough selectees to meet their quotas, Richland county's three boards today reported they were near the end of their lists and only enough 1-A men to fill their quotas for three more months.

The three county boards have a total of 163 men who have been approved by examining physicians and are ready for induction. The boards have a call for only one man next month, however, and the men awaiting induction should easily meet the county's requirements for January, clerks predicted.

Board 1 in Mansfield has only 70 men left to be examined, but it has approximately 80 in the 1-A classification, ready for immediate induction. Board 2, serving the east half of the city and Madison township, probably has the biggest supply of men of any of the three boards. That board has 115 yet to be examined and 51 ready to go. Its calls are smaller than the other two.

In addition to their 163 selectees ready to go to camp, the county boards have 310 more to be examined and from that group the boards can expect to get nearly 150 1-A men for their February call.

Clerks said the periods of deferment for a number of the registrants are expiring and the men are being added to the eligible lists to give the boards another source of selectees for the army.

State draft headquarters said today that 100 local boards throughout the state are reviewing their deferments in preparation for a state-wide comb for available men whose induction was delayed because of the importance of their work.

When the boards have used all their 1-A men obtained in the first check of their lists, they will start over again, paying less attention to minor physical defects and jobs at home.

Men with slight physical disabilities are placed in class 1-B.

FOR NEW TANKS

Army Will Spend 53 Millions For Rivetless Equipment.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The war department reported today that arrangements have been made for construction and expansion of facilities for making rivetless armor for tanks, to cost $53,000,000.

The work is to be financed through the defense plant corporation. It is part of the new army program for production of light, medium and heavy cast steel tanks at a rate to reach 3,000 a month by 1924.

The army has been developing cast steel tanks for many months. Actual war experience has shown that the riveted type resulted in heavy casualties among crews. The impact of shells frequently blew rivets loose and sprayed crew members.

Major Gen. Lahm, Ex-Mansfielder, Retiring After 40 Years In Army

He Was Nation's First Army Officer To Fly Airplane.

Major General Frank P. Lahm, former Mansfielder and a pioneer in aviation, is retiring this month from the U. S. army at the age of 64, it was announced today.

The first army officer to fly a plane and a member of the board that tested the first plane the army bought in 1909 from the Wright brothers, Major Gen. Lahm has 32 years of flying logged in his book. He has been in the army for 40 years.

Last Oct. 3 he was appointed commander of the Gulf Coast Air Corps Training center at Randolph Field, Texas, the last army post he held before his retirement on reaching the age of 64 as required by law.

Major Gen. Lahm went to France in the summer of 1905 to study aeronautics and from that time to the present he has been a leader in the development of aviation. He was the first airplane pilot and the first balloon pilot in the army.

He organized the American Lighter-Than-Air section of the A.E.F. during the first World war and later was appointed commander of the Army Air service.

He studied aviation under Orville Wright and was graduated from West Point in 1901. With Wright he completed the first cross-country flight, a 10-mile trip from Fort Meyer to Alexandria, Va., and return.

Returning to the United States after the first World war, Major Gen. Lahm was attached to the War department general staff at Washington from 1920 to 1924. Then he went to San Francisco as air officer of the Ninth Corps area for two years. He organized the Air Corps training center which he headed from 1926 to 1930.

The Air Corps training center was the nucleus for Duncan, Kelly and Brooks Fields, Texas, which are now training thousands of army fliers.

The title of major general was conferred upon Lahm last Sept. 15 by President Roosevelt in recognition of the veteran officer's service to the army.

An organization of youthful aviation enthusiasts in Mansfield, known as the Frank Lahm Cadets, was named for the noted officer, and he has always been interested in the club. He has been back to Mansfield frequently in recent years.

First pilot in the United States army air corps, Maj. Gen. Frank P. Lahm, former Mansfield resident, now is retiring from active service. General Lahm is pictured at Randolph field, Texas, looking over a scale model of the air corps' "West Point of the Air" which was made possible partly through his vision and foresight.

LOCKE SCOFFS AT TAX SPLIT

Says He'll Attend Meeting But Won't Ask Part of State Money For City.

Mayor William J. Locke thinks the rapidly-growing campaign of Ohio cities to obtain a share of the sales tax surplus piled up by the state is "all a political move aimed at Gov. John Bricker," and he doesn't intend to ask for a share of the surplus for Mansfield.

Locke—like Bricker, a Republican—said, however, that he would participate in a projected public meeting of executives of Ohio cities for discussion of their financial positions.

Led by newly-elected Democratic Mayor Frank Lausche of Cleveland, northern Ohio mayors met in Cleveland yesterday to go over their situations and laid tentative plans for a state-wide meeting.

Among those at the meeting were two Republican mayors—Joseph Petro of Elyria and Harry Van Wagnen of Lorain—both of whom took the stand that the state should divide the sales tax surplus with the cities. Both said their communities were in need of the money.

In Richland county, Democratic County Auditor Norman Wolfe differed with Locke and said he would be "interested in getting a share of the sales tax money."

Most recent estimates are that about $11,000,000 is being held by the state. Gov. Bricker has taken the position that it is necessary to build up a surplus as a cushion

Nazis Hold State Funeral for Col. Werner Moelders.

BERLIN —(INS)— A state funeral was held in Berlin today for Col. Werner Moelders, Germany's foremost air ace who was killed with several other persons last Saturday when an air liner bound for the Russian front from Berlin crashed near Breslau.

Field Marshall Hermann Wilhelm Goering, luftwaffe chieftain, led the procession of mourners from the air ministry to the cemetery where Moelders was buried.

ASKS REVIEW

Ohio Fuel Gas Wants Rate, Refund Order Restudied.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— The Ohio Fuel Gas company today asked the state supreme court for another review of its Columbus rate structure and to stay an order to refund thousands of dollars to gas users in the capital.

Only last July 23, the high court upset a state utilities commission ruling order imposing an average rate of 56.22 cents per hundred cubic feet of gas, and told the commission to issue a new order for an average rate of 53 cents. It is this rate from which the company appealed today.

In the July decision, the high court also held that the utility had no authority to serve customers with a mixed or hybird gas.

In its appeal today the utility contended that the commission order imposing the Columbus rate schedule is prejudicial and not based on evidence.

HOLLYWOOD —(U.P.)— Orson Welles, actor-writer-producer, and actress Delores Del Rio will be married soon after her divorce from art director Cedric Gibbons becomes final Jan. 18, their associates said today.

They said the couple had not set a definite wedding date. They plan to have a quiet civil ceremony in California.

CHICAGO —(INS)— Within the next year and a half, rearmament industries will need 4,000,000 new workers, most of them between 17 and 21 years of age and either skilled or semi-skilled, it was predicted today by Aubrey Williams, director of the National Youth Administration.

OK'S BILL TO SEIZE PLANTS

Senate Committee Approves Measure Against Strikes In Defense Industry.

WASHINGTON—(UP)—A senate judiciary subcommittee today approved a bill sponsored by Sen. Tom Connally (D, Tex.) which would authorize government seizure of struck defense plants and mines and freeze labor conditions in those establishments.

Connally, who is chairman of the subcommittee, opened hearings on the measure at the time of the captive coal mine strike. It is one of a series of anti-strike bills pending in the senate and house, and the first one on which action currently has been taken.

The measure would extend President Roosevelt's present general property seizure powers to "any plant equipped for the manufacture, production or mining of any articles or materials which may be required for national defense."

It would also provide that union or open shop conditions in the seized plants be frozen for duration of the government operation.

Connally said the bill would go before the full judiciary committee at once for action which he expects will send it to the senate floor next week. The subcommittee approved it unanimously.

Meantime, the house labor committee, caught in the cross-currents of administration-labor-industry pressure, met to try to work out overall anti-strike legislation acceptable to the house.

If it does not report a bill with "teeth" in it—compulsory arbitration or similar drastic prohibitions against defense strikes—there may be a free-for-all scramble on the house floor next week to pass one of the dozen or more pending defense labor bills.

INCOMING CITY DADS BACK AIR DEVELOPMENT

Six of Nine Members of New Council Agree It's Time To Improve Port.

NEW COMMITTEE SEEN

Miller Predicts Cash Will Be There If Administration Develops Program.

A majority of the new city council which will take office Jan. 1 was of the opinion today that the time is at hand for immediate improvement of the municipal airport, and Fifth Ward Councilman Fred Miller, present chairman of council's finance committee, virtually promised an appropriation of funds for the work in 1942 if the administration would lay before council an intelligent and well-planned program.

Six of the nine councilmen-elect indicated their approval of immediate development of the municipal landing field to protect Mansfield's air future.

Airport development became a moot question this week as the result of the government's action in transferring for advanced training to Lockport, Ill., a city of 3,500 population, 24 Argentine fliers who were already enroute to Mansfield due to the sloppy condition of the unimproved runways. Lockport has hard-surfaced runways.

Four veteran councilmen, including two members of the all-important finance committee voiced the opinion that maintenance funds should be set up for the port next year. All indicated they favored a long-range program of permanent development of the field.

Two new members who came into office Jan. 1 were reluctant to make a statement for publication but admitted they were "100 per cent" for airport improvement. Three could not be reached.

This attitude toward the municipally owned field was backed up by Council President Howard G. Miller who said he would appoint an airport committee to administer funds if the administration and council provided money for either port maintenance or development.

He indicated he favored an ap-

FDR Says Something Should Be Done About Lobbying.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— President Roosevelt said today he favors legislation to meet the question of lobbying by former government officials.

Responding to a press conference inquiry, he said he and Attorney General Francis Biddle agreed that something should be done.

Charles West, former undersecretary of interior and one-time congressional liaison man for Mr. Roosevelt, recently filed suit in New York against the Empire Ordnance company for $700,000. He claimed it was due under a contract whereby he was to get one per cent of all defense orders obtained by the company.

Officials View Orient Crisis As Very Grave

Possibility of Arming Merchant Ships In Pacific Raised; Capital Stirred As Japan Continues Preparation For Thailand Invasion.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The American government, it was learned today from the best available sources in Washington, has ruled out any possibility of a compromise with Japan on the Chinese issue and has raised a possibility that American merchant ships in the Pacific may be armed.

While it was reported on the highest authority that negotiations looking toward peace in the Pacific and Far East had not broken down, the United States viewed the present situation as extremely serious.

An official White House announcement concerning merchantmen said that these vessels sailing on Pacific routes "will not be armed under existing circumstances."

And when President Roosevelt was asked at a press conference how long he thought those circumstances would prevail, he said he thought the question might better be asked in Tokyo.

He was asked also whether there was anything he might say on negotiations with Japan's envoys in this country and replied that he thought he had better not.

CLINGS TO HOPE OF PEACE, BUT—

Thailand Assembly Accepts Bill To Prepare For War Emergency.

(By International News Service)

BANGKOK—Fearing a Japanese invasion, ancient Thailand (Siam) prepared for war today but still clung to hopes of peace.

The national assembly accepted a new "bill for defense of the kingdom" presented by Premier Luang Bipul Songgram in his role of defense minister. Songgram explained the measure authorized the government to prepare for war or any emergency which might arise.

But in a nationwide broadcast to Thailanders, the premier held out hope war might be avoided. He said he had received assurances from the United States and Britain that they would respect Thailand's independence.

On the other hand, Songgram said the only assurances Japan had given were that Nippon "would do its utmost to promote cordial relations." Thus, he declared, there is a clear distinction between Thailand's relations with the democracies and with invasion.

Adopting a placatory tone, Songgram in his broadcast argued that "Japanese troops in Indo-China have no aggressive intentions against Thailand." He also referred indirectly to the massing of British troops in Malaya.

The premier reaffirmed Thai neutrality and asked Thailanders

REPORTS SALES LEVELING OFF

University Bureau Notes Increase In October Lowest of Year.

COLUMBUS—(UP)—The Ohio State University Bureau of Business Research today reported a "leveling off" in retail trade gains in Ohio during October over last year.

The volume was 8 per cent ahead of October, 1940, but the bureau said the proportionate advance was the smallest of any month this year. The state's retail trade for the first 10 months was 23 per cent above the same period last year.

A sharp 22 per cent decrease in October sales by motor vehicle dealers was reported by the bureau.

Yet he conceded that news on the negotiations had been based largely on dispatches from Tokyo and he declared that the reason for this was an American policy of infinite patience.

It was learned on the best of authority that the current situation in the Far East is regarded as serious because America desires that there be peace in the Pacific and is taking no steps that would alter prospects for peace.

Reports of unabated Japanese military activity near the border of Thailand brought new concern to the capital.

An invasion of Thailand, informed sources here believe, would probably be Tokyo's first move if the Japanese government decides to reject Secretary Hull's basic formula for peace in the Pacific and resume Japan's program of armed expansion southward.

However, two highly placed senators, while not minimizing the grave state of affairs, voiced the belief that Japan was playing a bluffing game which could end in peace more easily than in war.

Senator Connally (D., Tex.), chairman of the powerful senate foreign relations committee, put it this way:

"I think the Japanese now are doing some more bluffing. The situation in the Far East is coming right up to the boiling point but it isn't going to boil."

He referred to reports that Ja-

GETS HEARING

Mayfair Gambling Case Goes Before Liquor Board.

As the state liquor board today considered charges of possessing gambling devices against the Mayfair Inn, west of Mansfield, Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston announced that George Talbot, 38, Lorain, arrested Nov. 12 following a raid on the tavern, will go on trial during the week of Dec. 8 in common pleas court.

Talbot, who was on duty at the tavern when it was raided by deputy sheriffs, is accused of possessing and exhibiting gambling devices for gain. He pleaded innocent when arraigned before Judge Huston soon after the charges were filed and has been free under $1,000 bond.

Common pleas court attaches said Talbot probably will receive a jury trial. His attorneys are John C. O'Donnell and J. V. Will. The liquor board will hear charges based on evidence obtained by Inspector John Barlow who discovered the gambling equipment in a room above the tavern the afternoon before the raid.

So the navy told him to report Dec. 19. But the army, advised of its priority, ordered him to report Dec. 3.

Asserts Nation, Schools Hold Key to Destiny of Democracy

The nation and the nation's schools must define the ideals and aims of a democracy, W. L. Miller, superintendent of Mansfield schools, said last night in an address before members of the Johnny Appleseed Junior high school Parent-Teacher association.

Speaking on the subject, "The Destiny of Democracy," Miller said that youth must be taught what its way of life is and what it calls for, pointing out that the chief danger to democracy is the failure of youth to "understand what democracy is and what it stands for."

European dictators," he continued, "have clearly stated their aims and ideals and have given their youth a goal to strive for — the domination of other nations. Youth of those countries has been glad to find an aim in life and has robustly followed the dictator-leaders toward their goal."

On the other hand, Miller said, American youth has not been taught what its way of life means and what it demands from American citizens.

The task before the nation and the schools is to "answer the challenge of the intellectual development of all citizens from the earliest years in the deep and abiding loyalty of all national life; the dignity and worth of the individual; the principles of human equality and brotherhood; the

Ashlander Gets Big Chuckle Over Mansfield Airport Woes

Over in Ashland, where there's a move under way for a completely modern airport, there's at least one person who is doing a bit of gloating over Mansfield's airport predicament.

He did his gloating in a letter—unsigned—addressed to the city editor of The News-Journal. In it was a note that said, "At least one city in this community has enough self-respect to want a decent airport." Also enclosed was a clipping of Wednesday's News-Journal story, which told of the transfer of South American student pilots to another city because of the poor condition of the Mansfield field.

Parts of the story were underlined, and pungent comment was added.

The news story called the pilot transfer another jolt to Mansfield's air future. "Oh, Boy, Oh, Boy," commented the Ashland reader. He called it "swell" that the pilots were ordered transferred to Lockport, Ill., a city of 3,500 because it has an airport with hard-surfaced runways.

Referring to the statement in the story which pointed out that the Hayesville landing field and facilities would be moved to Ashland if proper runways are built there, the reader added an emphatic "and we will!"

He added further that it would be "bad for Mansfield" if a nearby city should obtain commercial air service before Mansfield does because of better port facilities.

sians appeared to have at least a momentary advantage, reporting that Red army troops violently counter-attacking in the Kalinin sector, 90 miles north of Moscow, "drove wedges into enemy lines and reoccupied many villages."

There was no mention, however, of the more immediate danger in the Klin sector, 50 miles northwest of Moscow.

Front-line reports to Pravda, Communist party newspaper, said the Germans were striking savagely on both flanks of Moscow's defense arc, with the heaviest blows apparently falling on the southern wing.

The Berlin radio said Russian troops had evacuated the town of Skopin, 150 miles southeast of Moscow, and that it was about to fall to advancing German columns. Skopin lies 50 miles southeast of Stalinogorsk, the scene of heavy German pressure earlier this week.

Without giving details, Pravda said tersely that "Moscow's peril is increasing."

A bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters was equally brief, declaring merely that Field Marshal Gen. Fedor von Bock's armies had pierced strong Soviet defenses before the capital.

In the Ukraine, the Nazi high command took note of bitter Russian counter-attacks near Rostov-on-Don and elsewhere in the Donets river basin but asserted they had been repulsed with heavy losses.

On the North African front, British dispatches said the situation as a whole in Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham's 11-day-old drive into Libya "continues to improve" and reported that imperial armored forces had intercepted remnants of an Axis raiding column fleeing westward after it had been broken up by a British tank charge along the Egyptian Libyan frontier.

Authoritative London quarters said the Axis "diversion" force was racing back into the desert toward the main battle zone at Rezegh, 90 miles west of the border, when other British armored units again fell upon it.

These quarters said no information was available on the outcome of the engagement or on latest developments in the bloody Rezegh sector.

The German high command declared again that British attempts to break out of Tobruk had been repulsed, and the Italian high command reported heavy artillery action at Tobruk.

London advices said advanced elements of the main British imperial armies had established contact with troops from the Tobruk garrison who fought their way 10 miles through Axis siege lines to join their fellow Britons at Ed Duda. The British acknowledged however, that "formidable pockets of Axis resistance" still remained around Tobruk and that the "pockets" must be wiped out before the navy could land troops and equipment at the port, an alternate to the perilous 100-mile supply route across the desert from Egypt.

A BBC broadcast said the British Mediterranean fleet, sweeping the waters between Libya and Crete, had so effectively blocked the Axis that since the beginning of the "great tank battles in Libya not one ton of supplies has reached the hard-pressed German and Italian armies by sea."

In an important side phase of the main African struggle, Premier Mussolini's high command acknowledged the fall of Gondar, Italy's last stronghold in East Africa, after a violent 10-hour assault by British siege troops yesterday.

With the capture of the town, in the Lake Tana region of Ethiopia, Il Duce's colonial empire, wrested from Emperor Haile Selassie in the invasion of 1935-36, was thus wiped out and British troops in that sector freed for action in North Africa.

The British bombed objectives in northwest Germany during the night, with the Germans acknowledging slight property damage and several persons killed or wounded.

The British said some people were injured and damage was caused by German raiders attacking coastal districts of East Anglia and southeastern England.

U. S. Britain Ready To 'Class' Finns

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Authoritative sources said today that the United States and Britain were expected to act jointly within a few days to class Finland with the Axis powers unless she gives evidence of abandoning hostilities against the Soviet Union.

Finland's adherence to the anti-comintern pact in Berlin these sources said is taken by Britain and the United States as further evidence that Finland is under the domination of Germany and is therefore unable to control her own actions.

The United States takes the view that Finnish leaders have refused to consider seriously the recent warning of Secretary of State Cordell Hull against Finland's continued warfare.

The anti-comintern pact was described by one high official as a "sham" designed to bring adherents fully under the Axis banner.

When and if the Allies are convinced there is no hope of Finland negotiating peace with the Soviet, it was said, Great Britain will declare war against her. The United States was expected to cancel the loans previously authorized for Finland and to class her with the aggressor nations.

10,000 Italians Taken Prisoner

LONDON — (INS) — Ten thousand Italian officers and soldiers were taken prisoner by British forces which captured Gondar, one of the last remaining Fascist strongholds in Ethiopia, British authorities announced today.

One half of the prisoners were Italians while the remainder were natives, the announcement said.

RAF Hammers Nazi Targets Over Night

LONDON — (INS) — R. A. F. bombers hammered targets in northwestern Germany last night and early today, concentrating particularly on railway lines and industrial districts around Dusseldorf.

In addition, an air ministry communique said, the docks at Nazi-held Ostend were heavily bombed. Airdromes in the low countries also were attacked. One British plane was listed as missing.

Terrorism Breaks Out Again in France

VICHY —(U.P.)— The German-controled Paris press launched a vociferous drive for French entry into the anti-comintern pact today and it coincided with a renewal of terrorist outbreaks.

Terrorism included two sabotage attacks on railroads, two bombings in Paris and an attempt by three terrorists to dynamite the electrical power transformer at Oisy-Le-Verger, in the vicinity of Arras, center of an important industrial region.

not to "look upon the troops of other countries, whether in Indo-China or Malaya, as soldiers who are about to attack."

"The situation is not so serious that Thailand cannot avoid involvement in war," he said, "although we are being subjected to military, economic and political pressure from all around.

"We are passing through troubled times, but the trouble is not of our making. It is our neighbors who are creating it."

Songgram advised Thais to maintain national solidarity—and avoid quarrels with aliens "even under extreme provocation."

"If we somehow manage to escape war there is a bright future for us," he said.

Official quarters, meanwhile, denied a report that Japan had offered to take over Thailand's entire defense. Newspapers, however, published reports of "fifth column" activities in widespread parts of the kingdom including frontier areas.

against a sudden drop in sales tax receipts if retail business should suffer a sharp dislocation.

City county and township officials and school boards are being urged to attend a state-wide meeting Dec. 11 in Columbus where the next step in the campaign for more money will be considered.

Although school officials have been invited to participate in the public meeting in Columbus, W. L. Miller, superintendent of Mansfield schools, said he believes the schools should "go slow in a thing like that."

If school officials should be called in later to discuss the movement, Miller said he would be glad to present his views of the situation.

"The schools can always use more money, but it probably is wiser to make sure we get the funds promised us first before trying to get more," the superintendent said.

Mayor Locke looked at it this way. "As long as the state government isn't wasting tax money I consider it very unsound for cities and counties to attempt to pass their financial problems on the state. We are in pretty good shape here because the Richland county record of tax collections is among the best in Ohio. The county is out of debt and the city's debt is nearly paid and both the city and county are getting along all right with the funds they have.

Pointing out that sales tax collections in Richland county this year probably will be more than $700,000 while the county will receive only $110,000, Auditor Wolfe said, "It looks like the cities and counties are not getting a very good deal."

"We realize that the state is providing school funds and old age pensions from sales tax receipts, but there are other sources of income besides the sales tax," he added.

pan had sent more than 100,000 troops through occupied French Indo-China to the Thailand (Siam) border.

Senator George (D., Ga.), ranking member of the foreign relations group, also conceded that the Japanese might move on Thailand, but indicated his belief this would not necessarily mean war between the United States and Japan.

House Majority Leader McCormack (D., Mass.) said he had no doubt that Germany was making every effort to get Japan into war with the United States but for "Germany's benefit, not Japan's."

As far as diplomatic relations between the two countries were concerned, there were no indications that the situation had changed one way or another since Secretary Hull presented the Japanese envoys with the basic United States peace formula Wednesday night.

The Japanese ambassador, Kichisaburo Nomura, and Saburo Kurusu, the special envoy, had a 45-minute talk with President Roosevelt late yesterday, but when this conference concluded Hull said he had no engagements to see them again.

The Japanese called the White House talk "friendly" but were indefinite as to their plans. Kurusu ignored questions regarding Japan's intentions toward Thailand. Presumably the two diplomats were awaiting further instructions from Tokyo.

An opponent of administration foreign policy, Senator Taft (R., O.), gave reporters this statement:

"With the Japanese making threatening gestures and with Secretary Knox declaring war on Japan periodically, there may be an explosion. You can not play that game forever without something happening."

Tokyo Believes Talks Near End

TOKYO —(AP)— Japanese officials carefully weighed U. S. Secretary of State Hull's note today with no notification of when or whether it would be answered but the press expressed belief that Japanese-American negotiations were near an end.

The contents of the note handed by Secretary Hull Wednesday to Japan's conferees in Washington, Ambassador Kichisaburo Nomura and Special Envoy Saburo Kurusu, were not disclosed.

Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo analyzed the present status of Japanese-American relations at a cabinet meeting but the government gave no clue to its next step.

High war and navy ministry officials met at the official residence of Premier General Hideki Tojo before the session to confer on the note and also sat in on the cabinet discussion.

The government spokesman's attention was called at a press conference to Japanese newspaper comment that Japan could accept no temporary makeshift arrangement and he was asked whether that was the government attitude.

He answered that such opinion must be considered by the government but that it was in no position to comment.

Chinese Confer With U. S. Ambassador

CHUNGKING, China —(INS)— Chinese Foreign Minister Quo Taichi held a long conference today with United States Ambassador Clarence E. Gauss and a separate talk with British Ambassador Sir Archibald Clark Kerr.

It was believed they discussed Washington reports of a possible Japanese attack on Thailand.

Hawaiian Troops On War Footing

HONOLULU—(U.P.)—The Hawaiian department of the U. S. army was placed on "alert" today—equivalent to war footing—throughout the islands.

Officers refused to comment on the order except to say that it was part of "routine training." They would not speculate on its relationship to the Japanese-American Pacific crisis.

Docks, terminals, bridges and highways were patrolled by armed soldiers and particularly heavy guards were placed around army and navy bases.

Tension Heightens In Shanghai Area

SHANGHAI—(INS)— Tension increased in Shanghai's foreign colony today as the second—and final—contingent of United States marines was evacuated from the city amid reports Japan is on the verge of military action against Thailand.

The second detachment of 1,400 marines sailed aboard the liner President Harrison in the wake of the first contingent, which departed yesterday in a driving rain aboard the liner President Madison.

process of free inquiry, discussion and criticism; the canons of personal integrity, honesty and fairness; the obligation and nobility of labor—all of which are items of importance in any community."

"Youth from his earliest stages must be taught to love these values; to struggle not only to perpetuate them within himself, but cause them to prevail among other individuals."

Compare the American ideals with European dictator ideals, Miller said that the appeal to youth of American democracy can be more potent than the appeal of any dictatorship. American democracy can offer youth everything which a dictatorship offers and yet advance beyond that and permit the freedom and liberty inherent in democracy, he said.

While dictators have substituted their philosophies for religion, Miller said, one of the essentials of democracy has remained the right to worship as the individual believes in the belief that religion "is one of the vital sparks in the life of a democracy."

In closing, he said that educators must "stand firm, in close relation to the parents and children to safeguard the total educational birthright of youth in the public schools.

"The schools must continue to teach tolerance and not hatred and must maintain their essential position as laboratories for developing democratic competence."

propriation large enough to at least cover maintenance of the port in the 1942 budget.

Miller said an airport committee had not been set up in past years because council had not provided funds for the port and that there would have been little a committee could have done "without something to work with."

Anticipating a number of changes in council committees next year, Miller said it was quite likely that an airport committee would be named to take the place of the Parks committee which he plans to drop.

The administration of the parks has been in the hands of a park commission for the past three years.

"The airport should be improved to the extent that it will place Mansfield on the air map," Fred Miller commented.

"I'm convinced that the future progress of any city today lies in its airport facilities. We should not lag behind progress."

The veteran councilman said city finances were in the "best shape than any time during the past 10 years," and there was "no reason at all" why the city could not contribute at least $5,000 a year towards improvements at the port.

He stated that if the administration would present to council a definite and well-planned program for expenditures at the port he would recommend to the new council that the money be spent on the improvements.

He was backed up by the other veteran member of the finance committee who will return next year. Second Ward Councilman C. N. Shultz, who advocated a long-range program of development.

Shultz indicated he would like to see the funds spent over a period of years, if they were available, rather than try to do the whole job at once.

"It's the same old story," First Ward Councilman Russell D. Porch said. "There were cities that didn't appreciate the importance of the railroads when they started and as the result were left in the backwash of progress."

"I feel that something should be done in the way of developing the field, but it should be governed by the city financial ability to pay for the improvements."

George Kyle, who several years ago recommended the sale of a part of the port and later disgusted at the lack of attention given the field, suggested it be planted in potatoes was "100 per cent for improvement."

"We should develop the airport and we should do it now," he said.

These members were joined by Roy Vaughn, councilman-at-large-elect and Sixth Ward Councilman-Elect Paul Bush, both of whom were unanimous in their opinion that something should be done in the way of improving the field. Newcomers in council, they declared to make more specific statements.

The three who could not be reached were J. R. Anderson, Clifford Knarr and Michael Mihalick, all of whom will take office next year for the first time.

NEW BROMFIELD NOVEL PLACED IN CIRCULATION

'Wild Is the River' Available at Library Along With Others on New Book List.

Louis Bromfield's new novel "Wild Is the River," is available for general circulation at Mansfield Public Library this week.

This latest Bromfield work is laid in New Orleans during the Civil war and has as its central character, Tom Bedloe, a member of the Army of Occupation.

Three women figure in the life of Bedloe, two as ruthless and indomitable as himself, and the third, a prime young woman from Boston, who is his fiancee.

WINDSWEPT by Mary Ellen Chase is a story of coastal Maine that centers around Windswept, the home of the Marston family, built under tragic circumstances by John Marston, lived in and loved by his sons and daughters and by their children. It is a way of life as well as an absorbing story of tragedy and conflict, pain and pleasure, sacrifice and fulfillment—beautifully written

The background of Edna Ferber's new novel, SARATOGA TRUNK, is old New Orleans and Saratoga in its glowing heyday. The time is the 70's and 80's of the last century, the story is that of Clint Maroon, a young Texan, and the beautiful but headstrong Clio Dulaine, a product of New Orleans and of Paris. It is an epic of America in the making—vital, romantic and fresh.

OTHER FICTION: ENGLAND IS MY VILLAGE by Rhys; BEYOND TOMORROW by Turner; CASE OF THE EMPTY TIN by Gardner.

STRICTLY PERSONAL by William Somerset Maugham is, to quote the author, "not an account of great events, but of the small things that happened to me during the first 15 months of the war." At the outbreak of the war, Maugham was in France He stayed there until the fall of France, writing articles on French morale for the British information service, and then, in the summer of 1940 he returned to England and later to America

THE RIFLE IN AMERICA by Philip B. Sharpe contains the history of the American rifle as it has never really been done before—actual details of the old guns—what inventions led to improvements in action and design and who was responsible for them—how changing conditions plus the experience of wars, affected weights, lines, calibers, sights, materials and a host of other interesting facts. All the modern rifles are shown in detail, even up to and including the Army's new Garand Rifle.

SALUD! A SOUTH AMERICAN JOURNAL by Margaret Culkin Banning is a popular novelist's account of her journey and the people she talked to as she traveled from Panama to Columbia, then to Ecuador, Peru and Chile, over the Andes to Buenos Aires, and up the coast to Rio de Janeiro

A TREASURY OF GILBERT AND SULLIVAN edited by Deems Taylor contains the words and music of 102 songs from 11 operettas by incomparable pair of collaborators. Stories and explanatory notes by Deems Taylor illustrations are by Lucille Corcos, and music arrangements by Dr. Albert Sirmay. A gem of a book for music lovers. This book has been added to the John Baxter Black collection.

OTHER NON-FICTION: THANK YOU TWICE by Bell; COMING OF AGE by Lloyd-Jones and Fedder -PRACTICAL ALGEBRA by Wolfe and Others; PHOTOGRAPHY: A SHORT CRITICAL HISTORY by Newhall; COAL by Moore; AMERICAN JOURNALISM by Mott; THAILAND, THE NEW SIAM by Thompson; PRINCIPLES OF CHEMISTRY by Hildebrand NORWAY by Kohl; RUBBER AND ITS USES by Fisher.

U. S. GOVERNMENT WANTS TO KNOW LENGTH OF TOOTHPICK!

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—How long is a toothpick?

That's what the United States government wants to know—it wants to know so badly that the department of commerce is holding a conference here on Wednesday of next week to decide.

They'll also debate the length, breadth and holding power of clothespins, at the meeting sponsored by the division of simplified practice of the national bureau of standards, a section of the commerce department.

The government would like to see the toothpick pegged at 2.375 inches. That's for the flat kind. They suggest that the round kind be 2.5 inches and that a variance of 5 per cent each way be allowed for both kinds that would take care of the splinters.

The meeting is part of a continuous program to stadardize the various articles of manufacture. This standardization was undertaken for the sake of economy during the last war and the work has continued since.

NAME WORRIES HOOSIER

FORT WAYNE, Ind.—(U P)—A worried man appeared at Fort Wayne selective service headquarters to explain that he has been living under a "consumed" name since he was a boy. Miss Katherine Walsh, selective service board secretary, told him she thought the government wouldn't mind at all as long as he answered his questionnaire and reported for service if called.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1941.

Solemn thought: We're the posterity for which the union was preserved in the war between the states.

Asking for an appropriation of $6,687,369,046 certainly gives an idea of exact calculation of needs, as a rough estimate might have wound up with $50 instead of $46.

As a good neighbor act we are about to resume buying silver from Mexico, which shows how complicated international problems can become, as silver is one of the things of which we already have too much.

No Time for 'Pork' Legislation

OF THE NEW Rivers and Harbors bill recently approved by the house committee, Senator Tydings said: "There is enough pork in the bill not only to load all the ships we are now building but those which we may build for many years to come." In his opinion it calls for appropriations for "non-essential, non-defense expenditures" incomprehensible and unjustifiable in such times as the present.

About the same time President Roosevelt, discussing proposed federal highway appropriations, indicated his belief that it is unwise to take executive or legislative action which will require approval of heavy appropriations by future congresses. This action in the past now makes it harder for the administration to cut non-essential expenditures out of the budget.

The practice, as he described it, is for congress to direct the federal roads bureau to inform states of allocations which are to become parts of prospective appropriations. The states then go ahead with road-building contracts. Later the federal government finds itself under moral obligation to come across with the large funds the states are counting on.

The nation is quite serious today about curtailing all unnecessary expenditures. Defense is vital, and whatever roads and waterways are required for defense are also vital. But "pork" and other budgetary joy-rides are more dangerous than ever now, and a truly patriotic congress would put a stop to them.

Cleveland Bans Pinball Machines

WHILE the number and variety of pinball (or "marble") machines operated in Mansfield seems sufficient to meet all reasonable needs for development of "skill", it appears not unlikely that some of those banned from Cleveland may find their way here, if the present tolerant administration attitude continues.

Cleveland has just passed an ordinance which outlaws pinballs and every other kind of mechanical gadget that "tends to encourage gambling," and as a result owners of the expensively ornate mechanical and electrical gadgets that have been in use in that city will seek friendlier fields for the contraptions which lure nickels from gullible persons —including many children.

As has been pointed out heretofore, it is not so much a case of slots, pinballs machines, and similar contrivances being particularly evil in themselves. The real evil is in the easy-going malignancies associated with the business, the corroding effects on all associated with or touched by the highly commercialized racket, including public officials and law enforcement agencies.

Cleveland's Mayor Lausche put the case clearly and forcefully in supporting the ordinance that rang the death knell for the gadgets in Cleveland. He said:

"In voting for this ordinance I want you to ask yourselves: Who is urging defeat of this menace? Are they citizens who maintain our welfare institutions, who support our police force and our courts? Or are they a selfish few interested only in the profits from these machines?

Those Busy College Girls

WHAT college girls do in their summer vacations may surprise some people. College men, particularly athletes, have long followed a variety of strenuous summer jobs, from working on boats or farms to delivering ice. That their sisters work at similarly varied gainful tasks is not so well known.

The girls of the New Jersey College for Women, according to a report of the personnel bureau, made a record in earnings during the summer months of 1941. More than 60 per cent of the student body worked. They earned a total of $75,305.

Versatility was shown in the 43 different kinds of work done. There was at least one delivery van driver. Other occupations listed were kennel assisant, asylum attendant, waitress, clerical worker, camp counsellor, salesgirl, cook, factory worker, farmer, journalist, librarian, laboratory worker, dietitian, mower of lawns, nurse, occupational supervisor in a prison, playground worker, radio actress, real estate salesman, singer, switchboard operator, teacher and swimming pool attendant.

British women have been handling almost every kind of work needed these days. Chinese and Russian women, too, have become famous for their courage, skill, strength and endurance. The college girl represents only one small group of American women, but she is doubtless typical of the adaptability, enterprise and energy of all.

Restoring Air Schedules

A REASSURING NOTE is found in the announcement of Pan American Airways that it will resume transatlantic service this winter on the route to Foynes, Ireland. That is part of the restoration of routes that were prohibited under the neutrality act, recently amended. Next spring, it is expected, similar connections will be renewed with important points in Newfoundland and other areas of the North Atlantic.

Thus step by step, it is hoped, this and other nations can resume freedom of movement for people and goods around the world. Every advance in that direction means resumption of modern civilization, which is based far more on international communication than the old cultures were. When people can travel freely everywhere again, the war will be really over.

Word comes that Rudolf Hess is very unhappy in England—but he'd probably be much unhappier in Germany just now.

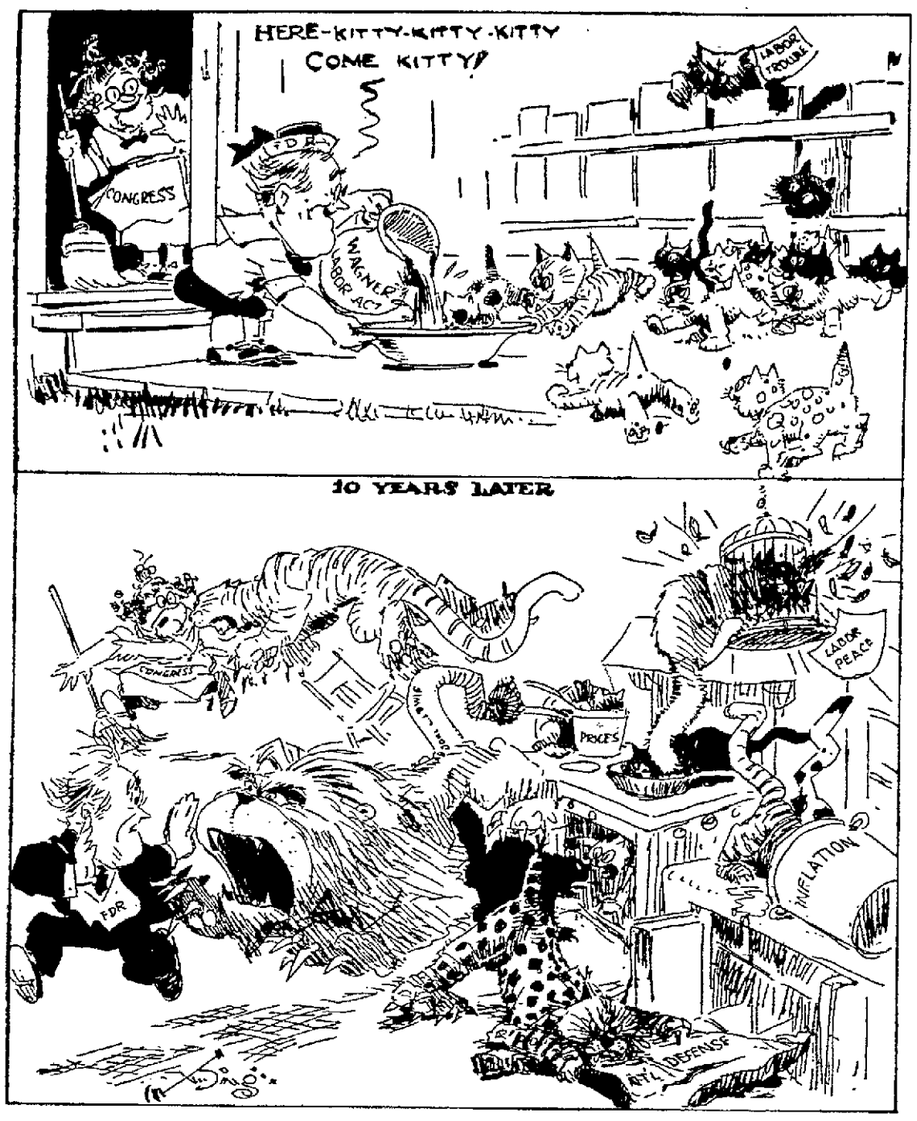
THE KITTENS HAVE GROWN UP



Value of North African Action

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Joseph Stalin is reliably reported to have told high American officials that he would not consider a British campaign in North Africa as complying with his demand for the British to open a "second front" to take the pressure off Russia.

This statement by the Red dictator was made more than a week before the British launched their new drive in Libya.

MILITARY experts here are almost unanimous in their appraisal of the situation. They admit that the renewal of fighting in Africa is not anything like as much of a diversion in helping Russia as would the landing of a British expeditionary force in continental Europe.

The point here is that all agree if such an expeditionary force should be landed in Norway, or anywhere else in continental Europe, the Germans would withdraw as many divisions as necessary from the Eastern front for the purpose of annihilating the British.

There is also agreement that the British force so landed WOULD be annihilated. But meanwhile winter would close in on the eastern front, and, possibly, European Russia would be safe until spring. On this last point there is no such agreement. There are some experts who believe Germany would be able to crush any expeditionary force Britain would be able to land in continental Europe without relaxing her war effort against Russia.

If the latter group is right, then Britain would make a terrible sacrifice without accomplishing anything. Worse than that there would be not only the loss of British lives, and military supplies most of which had already run the submarine gauntlet in the Atlantic but the resulting prestige of the Germans would have a very bad effect in other quarters.

For example such a British setback might spur the Japanese on to defy the democracies—might even result in an attack by Nippon on Siberia. In this event Stalin would have helped prepare a blow for his own country by his own bad judgment.

THE BRITISH—and our government agrees—are even more worried about the effects of such a British defeat on the French in Africa.

There is plenty of understanding among these military experts for Stalin's attitude. In fact there is great sympathy as well. But there is virtual unanimity that the price of such help for the Reds is too high, especially as there is no certainty that the goods for which the price would be paid would be delivered.

But the really interesting point made by the experts is that Stalin is wrong in thinking that a North African offensive by the British is not a satisfactory substitute. In the opinion of these observers it is far more likely to prove of lasting value to Stalin than the sort of offensive he has been calling for.

In the first place, it is pointed out, the repercussions from a defeat would not be nearly so disastrous. In the second place, win, lose or draw the cost to the Germans of this North African campaign will be far greater than a campaign of twice the forces involved in Continental Europe.

The answer to this is that Germany must send every soldier, every tank and every gun for the North African campaign overseas. The British navy has been taking a terrific toll of the ships which form this line of supply. The toll may be expected to increase, rather than diminish.

So the effectiveness of the British army in North Africa is not limited to the losses it can inflict on the enemy. It is augmented by forcing the enemy to expose itself to British naval attacks.

Listen World!

Penalized Women

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THIS time it's Mrs. A. H. Welsh, of 427 Lexington avenue, McKeesport, Pa., who is Columnist For a Day. And she has certainly picked a depth bomb for a topic! Says she:

"WHY SHOULD WOMEN BE PENALIZED IN INDUSTRY, GIVEN LESS PAY FOR DOING THE SAME AMOUNT OF WORK AS A MAN, SIMPLY BECAUSE THEY ARE WOMEN?

"I believe that all workers should be paid for services rendered, according to merit and regardless of sex. Can't men see that all work standards are cheapened when they allow this condition to exist?"

"MRS. HELEN (A. H.) WELSH
"427 Lexington Ave.,
McKeesport, Pa.

That's an honest protest, Helen, and thousands of women will echo it. But not I. I admit it's true. Women often are paid less than men for the same or better service. Yet, in the long run, I believe it's a fair—even an inevitable practice.

YOU CAN'T RATE MEN AND WOMEN ON A PAR, INDUSTRIALLY.

The woman may be—and often is—a more zealous worker. She may and frequently does—give more time and thought to her job. She'll attack it with more zest . . . show more initiative . . . grumble less at infringement on her "rights."

YET, BY AND LARGE, SHE'S LESS RELIABLE AS A WORKER . . . AND IS RATED ACCORDINGLY.

Hold everything, lady . . . don't explode yet! Remember, we're generalizing . . . not talking about specific instances. There are individual cases which disregard all rulings . . . women whose work is so outstanding that they become a law unto themselves. But, taking us as we come, we're a chancy sex and must be handled accordingly.

That's nothing against us. We didn't choose to be that way. It's all a matter of time and training. We've been home-makers, wives and mothers almost exclusively for millions of years and developed a technique to fit our status. Where a man follows the tribal trail, we work as individualists. Where he gets results by conforming to the tribal pattern, we catch-as-catch-come . . . inventing our rules as we go along.

Men are geared to time clocks and team work . . . women aren't. Men have been trained to work in regiments and ruts. . . . Women haven't. Men know how to keep their emotions separate from their jobs . . . Women don't.

Which, I repeat, is nothing against us. But is certainly a headache to the average boss.

Why isn't a woman paid the same wage for the same amount of work as a man? That's why. She's as efficient as a man . . . as intelligent . . . as conscientious . . . as loyal to her organization. But she's an individualist . . . a newcomer to the working world. And, chances are, she'll always remain so.

Regardless of her industrial status, human relationships are always a woman's first job. Whatever her marriage may mean in a man's private life, he rarely lets it interfere with his bookkeeping. But, though the boss may have spent ten years in training Miss Jones to be a super-super-secretary, a home and husband will always have priority in her heart and mind. Which every boss learns by painful experience . . . and trims his sails to suit.

Well, what's wrong with that? It may bring a slimmer pay envelope, but it means a richer life. And I've yet to meet the real woman who wasn't more interested in life and love than hours and wages. Or am I off my beam? You tell!

Murray Takes Firm Hold on CIO, No Thuggery or Raids, He Warns

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The first thing honest, earnest Phil Murray did after his unanimous re-election as CIO president was to summon the entire national CIO staff before him and deliver a very meaningful lecture on "loyalty."

With a few exceptions the CIO staff was originally appointed by John L. Lewis, and most of them continued to play close ball with John L. after Murray took over the driver's seat. Prominent among those present at this secret carpet session were: Allan Haywood, organization director and an old Lewis henchman; John T. Jones, legislative representative and a long-time Lewis lieutenant; Lee Pressman, leftwing general counsel; and comptroller J. Raymond Bell, Lewis's brother-in-law.

Murray made no threats, but he implied plenty. He made it very clear that he knew what had gone on behind his back and intended to have no more of it. Henceforth he was going to be boss in practice as well as in name.

"For a year I have said nothing about many things I knew were taking place," he said quietly. "I have been aware of everything that was said and done. But from now on I want you to know that I won't stand for any disloyalty from anyone. This convention has give me a mandate and I intend to see that it is fulfilled. Either you will be loyal to me, or you will get out."

Murray's private lecture was a follow-up of his closing speech to the convention castigating "thuggery" and "jurisdictional raids." Both blasts were aimed directly at the United Construction Workers, whose chief, A. D. "Denny" Lewis, was appointed to the $10,000-a-year job by his brother, John L.

The Construction Workers have been raiding other unions and have stirred up a hornet's nest of indignation within the CIO. Also, this union has barged into fields only remotely related to construction. It granted a charter to a Communist-controlled teamsters local in Minneapolis and is organizing service employes in New York City apartments and Yale college. Actually the union has only a few construction locals.

Murray has done nothing about this, but in his blistering speech he served notice that he was going to.

"Labor unions are never built by the use of thuggery and brass knucks," he said grimly. "And as president of this organization I do not intend to allow jurisdictional raids. I shall not stand for any backstairs maneuvering."

Note: Inside word is that Jones, an ex-miner official who sees eye to eye with Lewis on isolation, will be one of the first to leave the CIO staff.

Eatin' Eggs.

HERE'S a tip from Secretary Harold Ickes to farmers who sell eggs.

Sell them as eatin' and not lookin' eggs.

Ickes' farm at Olney, Md., does a sizable egg business in Washington and recently some customers complained about the brown color of the eggs. Farmer Ickes met the criticism head-on. In each package he inserted the following printed piece of advice:

Eggs for Taste—Not for Looks

Important to you is how your eggs TASTE, not how they LOOK before they are cooked. That is why Headwaters Farm specializes in extra large, strictly fresh, New Hampshire Red eggs. Expert breeding and scientific feeding produce a sturdy brown shell, highly protective of the precious egg-fluid within.

You Get More for Your Money

Capital Chaff.

A CIVIC organization, about to stage its annual convention, wired Senator Tom Connally asking him to obtain entertainment for the convention. Their first choice was The Quiz Kids; second choice, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor. . . . When Joe Ball was a Minnesota newsman, he used to wash the dinner dishes. Now that Joe Ball is a senator, filling the unexpired term of the late Lundeen—he still washes the dinner dishes. . . . Senator Leader Barkley, who was born on a farm in Graves County, Kentucky, sadly refers to dressing in evening clothes as "putting on my heavy harness". . . . Most men who have four bathrooms in their houses rate as aristocrats, but Rear Admiral Ben Moreell, chief of navy's bureau of yards and docks, displays his dirty hands to prove he's no aristocrat. He 'got his hands dirty building the four new bathrooms into his house.

Secret Nazi Code.

J EDGAR HOOVER has uncovered a new type of secret code used by the Germans in communicating with agents in this country. It is based on the latest American best-selling novels.

Each agent is assigned a number and also a novel or non-fiction book. One man may have number 88, and the novel, "Gone With the Wind." Another may have "The Nine Old Men." Instead of carrying a code book around with him, which would be incriminating if discovered, he carries the innocent book.

Then he gets a wireless message reading something like this 88-24-6, 78-9, 204-3, etc. The first number is his designation as agent 88. The next number, 24, refers to a page of the book, and the next number refers to a line. The first letter in the line is the letter required. By the next number combination he gets another letter and gradually makes up the words of the secret message.

This code defied counter-espionage until G-Men caught one of the agents and broke him down. He confessed that the book he was carrying, "All This and Heaven Too," was his code book, and he explained the entire sytsem to Hoover's men.

This was the key which led to the FBI's dramatic spy seizure, in which 33 Nazi agents were caught in a single trap.

Merry-Go-Round.

SAID Mrs. Lionel Atwill at a cocktail party to Rear Admiral John H. Towers, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, "Jack, you're a rear admiral, aren't you? How many drinks does it take to make a full admiral?" . . . Army officers bound for China get their final orders not from war or state departments, but from a quiet little ex-professor of economics, Lauchlin Currie, secretary to the president . . . When Japanese envoy Saburo Kurusu arrived at the Washington airport, three Oriental newsmen were on hand to meet him—Japanese correspondents Masuo Kato and Clarke Kawakami; and Chinese correspondent, Joe Chiang. When the two Japanese saw the Chinese, they proceeded to frisk his pockets, looking for arms. Actually, it was a joke—the three Oriental newsmen remain friends.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Historical note: I see where a blast has been put on Harvard historians for leaving the public in darkness concerning Canada and the states to our South.

It seems to me it would be a better idea to rewrite some of the fairy tales the kids get in school about our own country. That picture of Washington Crossing the Delaware, for instance. It was painted by an artist who never saw Washington or the Delaware. It shows Washington standing proudly in the prow of a small boat under the protecting benevolence of the American flag. When Washington crossed the Delaware, that flag hadn't been invented. And he didn't stand. He sat. In that boat was a fat trooper named Knox. Washington bawled a request to him that can't be repeated in family newspapers. If you want the particulars, see Preston's "Revolution, 1776."

Another fairy tale that exists in our literature is the poem about Barbara Frietchie, who is supposed to have cried to the cruel Confederates as they invaded Maryland, "Shoot if you must this old gray head, but spare my country's flag" . . . That never happened.

There is also a painting in one of New York's great museums which purports to show John Brown's last hours. The artist has Brown, while en route to the gallows, pause long enough symbolically to kiss a Negro child. That never happened.

Neither did Betsy Ross make the first flag . . . Neither did Balboa discover the Pacific.

When you get right down to it, old Grimm and Aesop were small time pikers. They didn't know what it was to concoct a fable.

EPICUREAN note: I have not been able to ascertain the veracity of this, but the story is that the wife of Professor Einstein, at a dinner on Park Avenue, recently ate half an orchid by her plate, thinking it was a salad . . . To forestall any possible embarrassment, so the story goes, the hostess quickly served a round of "orchid salads" to every one at the table. That's fast thinking—if the orchids last.

BIG Alan Hale, the actor, has made a fortune out of an automatic theater seat invention. Now he has invented a pocket-size fire extinguisher that will clean up another fortune.

From a rural Tennessee weekly: "Owing to lack of space several births and deaths will be postponed until next week."

Earl Carroll once collaborated on a song with Enrico Caruso . . . But no one would publish it.

A lifesize portrait of Jimmy Walker still stands in the Miami home of the first Mrs. James J. Walker.

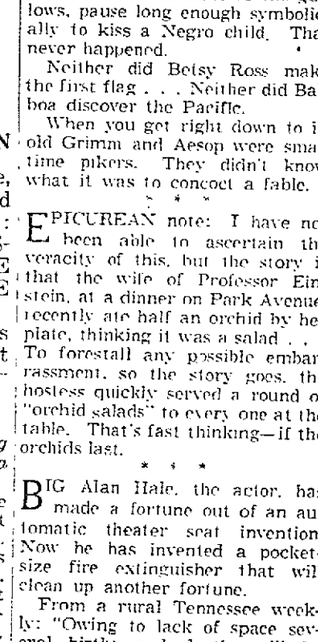
Musicians have replaced traveling salesmen in current jokes. It's always a drummer or a fiddle player who spies the farmer's daughter.

D'ju know the MGM 'phone bill runs over a million dollars annually?

Sonja Henie gave up flying lessons after her marriage. Her husband didn't like it.

World's Fair stamps, dated 1939 are still sold at local postoffices.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT



"I'll be frank, officer. . . . I'd rather not have a ticket."

A Farmer's Diary

He Sends Sea Shells

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THESE shells were collected by our son who's soldiering in Panama," the stately, gray haired mother told us. "It's lonely for the boys in the jungles and the city of Colon isn't altogether the place to find the best entertainment, even when they have leave.

"I myself was always interested in shells and Jack soon learned to know which ones were valuable. Whenever he sends home a box of perfect specimens, his father and I send him $5. Not that we buy the shells—many of them are worth much more. They remain his, but we think we'd rather he'd take long trips exploring seacoast than spend too much time hunting other entertainment. He'll likely never have the opportunity to actually live in jungles and jungle shores again."

I looked at the shell collection with greater appreciation after those few words. Here were thin shells like flakes of shaved soap; curved, fluted shells with markings of pink and burgundy; twisted coils of shell that might have housed Holmes' nautilus; spotted glassy ovals with jagged lip beneath; male and female shells, their sex indicated by the size of the points at the largest circumference; fragile 'puff balls' with perfect circular openings at top and bottom; odd species of varicolored coral.

My young soldier friend must have walked miles and hunted carefully to find these perfect specimens. When he comes home he will have not only a priceless shell collection, such as he could not obtain in his native land, but he will have what means a great deal more—the habit of using whatever comes to hand to make a stepping stone to something better. Those shells are symbols of faith between parents and son.

His mother spoke again. "I like to sit by our front window and see the moon rise and reflect a silvery line on the rippling water of our little lake. And I think of Jack, who, fifteen minutes later, will see the same moon light up the water where he is. It makes me feel, in the quiet of evening, that we are much closer. See—here's his picture."

She produced two views of the lad—the first a laughing high school boy "that's over a year ago": the second a sturdy, more serious pose, in the United States army uniform. Then, from somewhere, she turned up a snapshot of a dark skinned, well-nigh naked figure—"dear me, he's like this, now! I hardly dare to claim him! It must be awful how hot it gets, down there!"

"He got a raise in pay," she added proudly. "He sends me some to bank for him each month. This is his second year in the service. He'll be home when the year's up—we hope. I want him to have something to start on."

It occurs to me that any boy with a mother like that has already a wonderful start in life.

HALF MILLION VALUE GIVEN SHELBY ESTATE

Holdings Totaling $510,072 Left By Charles S. Huber, Appraisers Report.

An estate valued at $510,072 was left by Charles S. Huber, former vice president of the Shelby Salesbook company, who died last Aug. 20, an inventory report filed in probate court showed today.

Bulk of Mr. Huber's property was in stocks and securities. The report listed $409,681 in investments, including $263,575 in Shelby Salesbook company stock. Accounts and debts receivable were set at $52,096, while real estate holdings were valued at $17,500 and personal property at $3,000. Also included in the estate was $27,791 in money.

Under Mr. Huber's will, filed several weeks ago, the real estate and personal property was left to the widow, Mrs. Pauline H. Huber, who will also receive the income from the residue of the estate after the first year.

The will directed that the greater part of the estate be held in trust by the National City Bank of Cleveland, executor and that the earnings be paid to the widow after one year. A son and daughter also survive.

Appraisers of the estate were Atty. Robert Green, William B. Kuhn and C. J. Laser, all of Shelby.

GALION EAGLES TO HOLD PARTY

GALION—A district meeting of the Fraternal Order of Eagles will be held in the local lodge hall, it was announced this week at a meeting of Galion aerie.

Announcement was also made of a dance to be held Saturday evening, for Eagles and their friends, and a party for the children on Dec. 18.

Three applications for membership were received during the business session. Several visitors were present from the Shelby aerie.

SUE FOR FEE

Mansfield Realtor, 21 Others Seek Commission on Sale.

G. W. Bahl, Mansfield real estate dealer, and 21 other members of the Mansfield Real Estate board had filed an action for $500 in commissions today in common pleas court, naming Emery Swendal, Richland county farmer, as defendant.

Bahl contends that Swendal signed a contract, placing a 160-acre farm in his hands for sale, allowing a period of three months for the sale. Before the time had expired, Swendal sold the land himself and refused to pay Bahl and the 21 associated realtors the five per cent commission allegedly due them, the petition states.

The action was filed in behalf of the 21 other members of the real estate board, the petition states, because Bahl solicited their help in finding a buyer for the land.

The plaintiffs said they believe the farm, known as the "Dr. Benedict farm," was sold for about $10,000, entitling them to $500 commission. Marshall C. Moore is counsel for the plaintiffs.

Because of the famous "gunpowder plot" of 1605, a ceremonial search of each building of Parliament is made every year.

BUILD DRAIN UNDER TRACKS

Construction work on a new drainage system under the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad at the Mansfield station was completed yesterday, road officials said.

Previous to the installation water had formed under tracks and along the road-bed because of the low surface at the station.

A drainage system of creosoted planks was placed underground between the tracks and covered with stones.

English monarchs have been crowned under the high vaulted roof of Westminster Abbey since 1274.

GALION GIRL WINS HONORS

Marcia Arter Claims Fifth Place In Art Contest at at University.

GALION—Marcia Arter of Galion, a junior in the college of education at Ohio State university, Columbus, recently won fifth place in the Dorothy McVitty poster contest conducted by the fine arts department of the university.

The posters have been placed throughout the university community to announce Dorothy McVitty's appearance as a vocalist with Phil Spitalny's all-girl orchestra on the "Hour of Charm" program Nov. 30 at 10 p. m.

Miss McVitty is a junior at the school, and will represent the university in a contest with co-ed singers from nine other universities.

At Ohio Wesleyan university, Mary Frances Fulton of Galion, is working with a vocational guidance committee to bring speakers in specialized fields to the campus. A three-day meeting in which students may confer with specialists in their fields of interest is being arranged at the university.

Miss Fulton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Fulton of Galion. She is planning a chapel program in which the visiting men and women will be presented. Miss Fulton is a junior at the university and is a member of Pi Beta Phi social sorority as well as the Y. W. C. A.

Hold Youths In Slaying

Police of Cumberland, Ky., claimed a solution to the murder of Ward Loveless, prominent Washington attorney, with the capture of Paul Hoback, 16 (left) of Bluefield, W. Va., and Tom Peters, 16, of Leesburg, Va., who were apprehended while driving the murdered attorney's sedan. According to the police, both youths admitted breaking into Loveless' home and engaging him in a fight after being surprised. They admitted "some shots" were fired but denied that Loveless was dead when they fled.

SEAL CONSERVES ENERGY

OAKLAND, Cal. —(U.P.)— Oscar, a young 43-pound seal, tired of having to reach and grab fast-moving fish for his meals, flopped two blocks out of the Oakland estuary to the plant of the Paladini Fish company. There he was placed in a private swimming tank and now is fed by hand.

HALF MILLION VALUE GIVEN SHELBY ESTATE

Holdings Totaling $510,072 Left By Charles S. Huber, Appraisers Report.

An estate valued at $510,072 was left by Charles S. Huber, former vice president of the Shelby Salesbook company, who died last Aug. 20, an inventory report filed in probate court showed today.

Bulk of Mr. Huber's property was in stocks and securities. The report listed $409,684 in investments, including $263,575 in Shelby Salesbook company stock. Accounts and debts receivable were set at $52,096, while real estate holdings were valued at $17,500 and personal property at $3,000. Also included in the estate was $27,791 in money.

Under Mr. Huber's will, filed several weeks ago, the real estate and personal property was left to the widow, Mrs. Pauline H. Huber, who will also receive the income from the residue of the estate after the first year.

The will directed that the greater part of the estate be held in trust by the National City Bank of Cleveland, executor and that the earnings be paid to the widow after one year. A son and daughter also survive.

Appraisers of the estate were Atty. Robert Green, William B. Kuhn and C. J. Laser, all of Shelby.

GALION EAGLES TO HOLD PARTY

GALION—A district meeting of the Fraternal Order of Eagles will be held in the local lodge hall, it was announced this week at a meeting of Galion aerie.

Announcement was also made of a dance to be held Saturday evening, for Eagles and their friends, and a party for the children on Dec. 18.

Three applications for membership were received during the business session. Several visitors were present from the Shelby aerie.

SUE FOR FEE

Mansfield Realtor, 21 Others Seek Commission on Sale.

G. W. Bahl, Mansfield real estate dealer, and 21 other members of the Mansfield Real Estate board had filed an action for $500 in commissions today in common pleas court, naming Emery Swendal, Richland county farmer, as defendant.

Bahl contends that Swendal signed a contract, placing a 160-acre farm in his hands for sale, allowing a period of three months for the sale. Before the time had expired, Swendal sold the land himself and refused to pay Bahl and the 21 associated realtors the five per cent commission allegedly due them, the petition states.

The action was filed in behalf of the 21 other members of the real estate board, the petition states, because Bahl solicited their help in finding a buyer for the land.

The plaintiffs said they believe the farm, known as the "Dr. Benedict farm," was sold for about $10,000, entitling them to $500 commission. Marshall C. Moore is counsel for the plaintiffs.

BUILD DRAIN UNDER TRACKS

Construction work on a new drainage system under the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad at the Mansfield station was completed yesterday, road officials said.

Previous to the installation water had formed under tracks and along the road-bed because of the low surface at the station.

A drainage system of creosoted planks was placed underground between the tracks and covered with stones.

GALION GIRL WINS HONORS

Marcia Arter Claims Fifth Place In Art Contest at at University.

GALION—Marcia Arter of Galion, a junior in the college of education at Ohio State university, Columbus, recently won fifth place in the Dorothy McVitty poster contest conducted by the fine arts department of the university.

The posters have been placed throughout the university community to announce Dorothy McVitty's appearance as a vocalist with Phil Spitalny's all-girl orchestra on the "Hour of Charm" program Nov. 30 at 10 p. m.

Miss McVitty is a junior at the school, and will represent the university in a contest with co-ed singers from nine other universities.

At Ohio Wesleyan university, Mary Frances Fulton of Galion, is working with a vocational guidance committee to bring speakers in specialized fields to the campus. A three-day meeting in which students may confer with specialists in their fields of interest is being arranged at the university.

Miss Fulton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Fulton of Galion. She is planning a chapel program in which the visiting men and women will be presented. Miss Fulton is a junior at the university and is a member of Pi Beta Phi social sorority as well as the Y. W. C. A.

Hold Youths In Slaying

Police of Cumberland, Ky., claimed a solution to the murder of Ward Loveless, prominent Washington attorney, with the capture of Paul Hoback, 16 (left) of Bluefield, W. Va., and Tom Peters, 16, of Leesburg, Va., who were apprehended while driving the murdered attorney's sedan. According to the police, both youths admitted breaking into Loveless' home and engaging him in a fight after being surprised. They admitted "some shots" were fired but denied that Loveless was dead when they fled.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

FEDERATION OF WOMEN HEARS SOUTH AMERICAN

Lt. Commander Fallon Entertains With Lecture, "A Good Neighbor Speaks for Himself"; Luncheon Held at Women's Club.

ENTERTAINING as well as informative was the lecture, "A Good Neighbor Speaks for Himself," presented by Lt. Commander Carlos Fallon, Colombian naval officer, for the Federation of Women at the Ohio theater Thursday morning. Mrs. Paul Bovard, president of the federation, introduced Commander Fallon with appropriate remarks.

A native Colombian and enthusiastic American, Commander Fallon discussed many of the misconceptions that residents of North America have regarding Latin American countries and people. He explained that a large percentage of the people in South America are descended not only from the Spanish and Portuguese, but also, like North Americans, from the Irish, Scandinavians, Dutch, French, Italian and English. Thus, the racial makeup of South America is not so different from that of this continent.

"Indian races were not exterminated, as in North America, but were exhilarated, when the Spanish took over their empire," said Commander Fallon. He explained that the Indian population on that continent was assimilated with the other races. In this country people look much alike, he said, but each South American country has its own Indian race. Thus the racial complexion of each country is different.

"Friendliness and neighborliness" of North and South Americans toward each other was emphasized by Commander Fallon. He described occasions on which this fact had been demonstrated for him in various parts of the world. Commander Fallon accounted for this "friendliness and neighborliness" by reminding his audience that without such a spirit, ancestors of present citizens could not have succeeded in establishing themselves in the new world.

In discussing democracy, the speaker pointed out that the people of United States have always been self-governed, while South Americans had been under Spanish rule for 300 years and had had much bloodshed in their revolutionary battles. Because they know the meaning of dictatorship, the Latin Americans are hoping that Europeans will overthrow the present dictators. Commander Fallon emphasized the fact that the "trend is toward self-government." He reminded his audience that 10 years ago, many South American countries were under dictatorship; today they are self-governed.

One of the greatest of the Americas' assets, said Commander Fallon, is the "All-American sense of humor." He stated that even more important than the sense of humor itself are the deeper things for which it stands: Americans know that they are a healthy, husky, virile race and they are not afraid to laugh. The speaker said that this all-American sense of humor even affects the way problems are faced. He feels that the people of North America would feel closer to the Latin Americans if they could see and laugh at the movies made in their countries as the Latin Americans do at pictures filmed in the United States.

In regard to the fifth column, Commander Fallon stated that not all South Americans of German blood are pro-Nazi In Colombia, those of German descent are pro-Colombian. He explained that the fifth columnists in South America are not German, but they are natives who feel that they can profit by a Nazi invasion. Their work is financed by the Nazis. Commander Fallon concluded with an optimistic statement that, although last year at this time, many South Americans were "sitting on the fence" in regard to the war, today they are definitely for the United States, "win or lose." He said that the people in North and South America can thank Hitler for bringing about a "united hemisphere."

An informal question and answer period followed the lecture and from the theater the Federation members went to the Women's club for a luncheon On Dec 11, the organization will have a morning bridge and luncheon at the same place. Reservations must be in by noon on Wednesday, Dec. 10.

Lawrence Todd Guest Speaker Of Music Club

Readings were given by Mrs. Sadie Doolittle and Mrs. Boyd Robinson. Dinner was served at a long table decorated with chrysanthemums. Mrs. Charles Koontz and Mrs. Carrie Kuehling will be hostesses for the next meeting to be held in January

Division Three Meets With Mrs. Wolforth

Division Three of the United Presbyterian church had its regular meeting recently at the home of Mrs. Karl Wolforth, Third avenue. Miss Lucile Day was associate hostess. Meeting was opened with a devotional service led by Mrs. Wolforth, who also conducted the business session.

Members spent the evening sorting and counting sales tax stamps. Refreshments were served during the social hour. Date of the next meeting is Dec. 31. The Misses Martha and Josephine McFarland, 27 Penn avenue, will be hostesses.

Colony Club Welcomes Group of New Members

Colony club welcomed ten new members into their organization at a meeting held Thursday afternoon at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. New members are Mrs. C. W. Kramer, Mrs. J. W. Lewis, Mrs. Richard Bowden, Mrs. D. M. Dunbar, Mrs. W. J. Daugherty, Mrs. Donald Lathrop, Mrs. Ross Sams, Mrs. Lee Hundley, Mrs. R. G. Taylor, and Mrs. F. P. Ritchie.

Miss Sylvia Frankel, guest speaker, gave a talk on the "History of Fashion." Two guests, Miss Frankel and Mrs. Milton Phillips of Canadaigua, N. Y., were in attendance. Luncheon was served at 1:30 p. m. at small tables centered with chrysanthemums. Fifty-two members were in attendance.

Following Miss Frankel's talk the afternoon was spent socially. Hostesses for this meeting were Mrs. L. S. Aldrich and Mrs. S. H. Campbell. Plans were made to hold a Christmas party and luncheon on Dec. 11 at 1 p. m. at the hotel with Mrs. Marcus Brooks and Mrs. H. W. Hoffman as hostesses. The club dance will be held Dec. 19.

Inspection Held By Relief Corps Thursday Night

Inspection was held last evening by McLaughlin Women's Relief Corps No. 26 at the Memorial building. Mrs. Sarah Case presided and Mrs. Jennie Collins, of Elyria, was inspecting officer. She was assisted by Mrs. Anna Bright, also of Elyria, who is president of District 12.

Preceding the meeting dinner was served at 6 o'clock. During the business session a letter was read from the chairman of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' home, requesting Christmas donations for veterans in the home. Mrs. Bess Buchanan reported that Thanksgiving baskets had been given to Civil war widows and shut-in members of the Corps. Cards were sent to widows residing outside Mansfield in Richland county. Mrs. Jane Neff reported sending a box for the Corps to the adopted mother at the Madison home, and read a letter of thanks from the mother.

On Nov. 30, the Corps will have a Veterans' Night party at North Lake park. There will be a covered dish dinner at 6 p. m. A program will follow. Next meeting will be held on Dec. 10. At that time there will be a Christmas exchange. Lunch committee is comprised of Mrs. Case, Miss Mary Beilstein, Mrs. Helen Edmondstone and Miss Emmabelle Jackson. There will be a "poke lunch." Gifts will be distributed by Mrs. Ethel Constance and Mrs. Della Cochran. Officers will be elected.

Gift last evening went to Mrs. Clara Sickmiller. After the inspector's report, Mrs. Katherine Sattler was presented a gift from the Corps. Mrs. Bright gave a talk on the Madison home for widows of veterans of all wars and asked that the members send gifts.

The department will have a Christmas party at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' home on Dec. 10.

Large Attendance At Appleseed P. T. A. Meeting

Approximately 300 members were in attendance at the Johnny Appleseed Junior high school P. T. A. meeting Thursday night in the dramatic room. Mrs. G. C. Young, president, conducted the business session. Membership chairman, Mrs. S. G. Bushman, announced that the total number of members is 460 parents and teachers. Miss Thelma Reed urged those present to attend the benefit production of the opera, "Barber of Seville," which will be given on Dec. 9, to supplement the scholarship fund for local musical talent.

Brooks Huber, high school science instructor, discussed teaching science in the public schools. Supt. W. L. Miller gave a talk on the "Sense of Destiny." He gave a definition of destiny; told of the destiny of education; and described the moral and religious destiny. Introduction of speakers was taken care of by John Correll, who had charge of the program.

Following the meeting, parents visited the classrooms to view work of the students and to become better acquainted with the teachers. The Johnny Appleseed Mothersingers will entertain at the next meeting, to be held in the auditorium on Dec 11.

Miss Mary A. Stahl Honored With Party

Miss Mary Stahl, who will become the bride of James B, Au on Dec. 25, was feted with a miscellaneous shower Thursday evening at the home of Miss Lucille Prosser, West Dickson avenue. Associate hostess was Miss Juanita Oswalt. Games and contests were diversions of the evening for the 12 guests in attendance. Luncheon was served at a long table decorated with chrysanthemums and lighted tapers. The guests and hostess presented the honoree with a shower of gifts at the close of the evening.

Christmas Party, Guest Night Will Be Held Dec. 10

Dinner was served at the Evergreen restaurant when the executive board of the Mansfield Business and Professional Women's club met recently. Nineteen members were in attendance. Reports were given by the secretary, treasurer and standing committees.

On Dec. 10, the club will have its Christmas party and guest night. Dinner will be served at 7 p. m. at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. The program is being planned by Nina Pollock, chairman, Wilhelmene Cahall, Thelma Reed, and Alameda Sharp. Musical numbers will be presented by the B. and P. W. glee club, directed by Miss Myrtle Booth, and several selections will be given by the symphony orchestra under the direction of Eugene Weinberger.

Hospitality committee is comprised of Mary Eggert, Helyn Brown, Ethelyn Davisson, Blanche Eckels, Lucy Spell and Arta Cairns. Ernsberger and Mrs. Paul Kipp, were in attendance. Three guests, Mrs. H. D. Morr, Mrs. Ralph Calhoun and Mrs. Frank Rush, attended the meeting.

Contests were diversions of the evening. Prizes were won by Mrs. G. F. Frontz and Mrs. Paul Stahl. Luncheon was served buffet style from a long table decorated with fall flowers. Plans were made to hold a Christmas party and gift exchange Dec 19 at the home of Mrs. R. H. McGregor, 468 South Diamond street.

Shirley Ann Brust Honored With Party

Mrs. Homer Brust, 245 West Fifth street, entertained eight friends of her daughter, Shirley Ann, in honor of her fifth birthday anniversary at her home recently. Games and contests were diversions of the afternoon. Luncheon was served at a long table decorated with pastel appointments. The honoree was presented with many gifts at the close of the afternoon. Guests at the party were Tommy, Carol and Kathleen Mayer, Sandra Hartman, Freddie Mortiz, Jean Fay and Phyllis Bonham.

MRS. HENDERSON BELL SPEAKS AT LIBRARY

Mrs. Bell, Noted Lecturer and Landscape Architect, Gives Interesting Talk on "Window Gardens" for Members of Garden Center.

VARIOUS designs for "Window Gardens" were discussed at the lecture given at the Garden Center at the Public library recently by Mrs. Henderson Bell, noted lecturer and landscape architect from Cleveland. Explaining that the location of a plant can mean its "life or death," Mrs. Bell told the audience the correct positions in which to place many types of plants.

"Transient plants," said Mrs. Bell, are plants that bloom for a short time and then cannot be made to grow again. "Foliage plants" are ones that grow without much care and "Fillers" are used to add color or attractiveness to a simple plant arrangement.

Following the lecture members of the Linnaeus Garden club, which has been in charge of the Garden Center this month, displayed attractive house plants. Members of the Mansfield Garden club will be in charge of the Center during December and are planning to display attractive Christmas decorations for interior and exterior of the home. The first week of December the club will demonstrate various articles that can be made by small children for Christmas gifts. Garden club consultants will be at the center on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

CUTWORK MOTIFS PATTERN 1023

Any beginner can do this cutwork that's contrasted with solid embroidery—a new and effective note! A touch of it on towel, scarf or other linens add greatly to their value. Patterns 1023 contains a transfer pattern of 16 motifs ranging, from 1¼x3½ to 2¼x14 inches, materials required, illustrations of stitches.

Send ten cents in coin for this pattern to The Mansfield News-Journal, Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Write plainly Pattern Number, your Name and Address.

Here are some eye-deceiving details used by Marian Martin to make Pattern 9783 the most slenderizing mode you've ever worn! A trim front buttoning, for example, that makes you seem taller and minimizes the hipline! Graceful side panels in the bodice that come below the waist to increase the vertical emphasis! Those side panels, incidentally are also repeated in the back. In the short-sleeved version they may be cut on the bias, if you use a checked fabric Don't you think the scallops add a feminine touch—use them on the short sleeves too, if you like Make this frock up for immediate wear in a crisp cotton that launders easily—make another in wool!

Pattern 9783 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards 35 inch fabric.

Send Fifteen Cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your Size, Name, Address, and Style Number.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

LURE THEM TO DOUBLE

BIDDING in such a way as to make sure the auction does not end, and yet not so as to reveal how pleased you are with the course it is taking, is part of the fine art of successful competition. By so doing, you may make your opponents think you are several tricks weaker, in playing values, than you really are, and consequently tempt them to double the contract you finally reach. When they do that, you have a grand chance to slam in a redouble and cash in to the fullest on the way they have fallen for your ambush.

	♠ A 7 5 3 ♥ 8 - ♦ J 10 3 ♣ Q 8 5 4 3
♠ 8 2 ♥ Q J 7 5 4 3 ♦ 5 4 ♣ 7 6 2	W. E. S.	♠ K Q J ♥ 10 6 ♦ 8 7 6 ♣ A K J 10 9
	♠ 10 9 6 4 ♥ A K 9 2 ♦ A K Q 9 2 ♣ None

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠	2 ♣
3 ♥	Dbl	3 NT	Dbl
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Dbl

It is simple enough to see what East expected to do—take two trump tricks and two more in clubs. In addition to all of that, he might pick up a trick or so in his partner's hand, in view of that double of hearts. After the hand he explained that South's bid of 4-Spades sounded to him like a bit of desperation, as if he reckoned the side was set anyway, having fled from doubles of both hearts and No Trumps.

A careful analyst should have pointed out that South bid diamonds first and hearts later, thereby indicating at least five diamonds and four hearts, or nine cards If he had as many as three spades, which he surely should have for his flight to that suit, then he could not have more than one club. Even at that, this particular East probably would have insisted he expected the setting trick from his partner after the double of hearts.

Bidding of that general keenness was one of the factors that carried Mrs Carolyn D Born, in the South, and Leander C Levy, both of New York, to the title in the recent non-masters' championship of the Metropolitan tournament conducted by the American Contract Bridge league. Mrs. Born, it seems, is one player who has not forgotten how or when to employ the too-little-used redouble. Because of it, the side scored 480 for tricks, 500 game bonus and 400 for a vulnerable extra trick redoubled — a mere 1,380 points, which produced a whacking top for the pair.

If on her second turn Mrs. Born had bid 3-Clubs, the call used there by most players to show a game fit in spades and no club losers, East never would have doubled and she would not have had her chance for a redouble.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

There was silence for almost a second after the outburst of the gangster with the shattered leg, then the air was filled with the ribald cursing from his uninjured companion, whom my father had just threatened with tear gas.

"Why, you d——d white-livered —— —— —— —— skunk," —his string of obscenity was unprintable—"if you think I'm going to put my hands through that door, you've got a dozen more thinks coming."

"But you haven't," my father said inexorably. "I am not a man with much patience, and you have exhausted the small stock I have. I'm giving you my last word. Men, be ready with that tear gas. I shall count to fifty. If he hasn't put his hands through the door on that count, throw in the bombs. Williams, you will attend to the handcuffs. Have them ready."

The man named Williams took a pair of handcuffs from his pocket, and moved close to the door, yet keeping out of range as my father had commanded. The man with the tear gas bomb also moved close to the door.

Spencer Starts the Count.

Then my father began to count, slowly, solemnly — "One, two, three, four—"

I found myself counting silently with him, wondering how long it would be before the bravado of the unwounded gangster would break. For thirty counts there was no sound or movement inside the room. But at the count of thirty-one the voice of the gangster with the shattered leg rose in a scream

"For the love of God, Fritz, don't let 'em send that thing in on me! I'll die if you do"

The plight of his companion mattered no whit to the defiant man I was sure of that. But it did give him an excuse for capitulation, and he used it.

Yields at "Forty-Six."

"What a louse you are!" he said contemptuously, "but you've got a bullet in you, so I suppose I'll have to go to the front for you Get out of my way!"

His voice was hurried now, for my father had reached the count of forty and was proceeding steadily on, apparently paying no attention to the colloquy of the gangsters. But at forty-six he stopped, for two hands and wrists came through the crack of the door, and Williams promptly handcuffed them together.

But the sight of those hands covered with blood loosened something in my brain. They were too small to be those of the unwounded gangster and the next instant I had left my cubby hole and was dashing to my father's side.

"Those are not the right hands!" I gasped.

"Margaret!" My father's voice was filled with majestic displeasure, but I noticed that he dropped to his side the hand holding the key with which he was about to unlock the door.

Madge Exposes a Trick.

"What do you mean?" he demanded, and I told him quickly.

"They are too small, and they are covered with blood, where he was holding his shattered ankle," I said breathlessly. "They are the smaller man's hands. The big man must have held him up and put his hands through"

My father vouchsafed me no answer, but turned to Williams.

"Leave those handcuffs on," he said, "and take out another pair."

Then he spoke to the man inside the door.

"For your wounded comrade's sake," he said. "I'm giving you an extra twenty counts Put that man back on the floor, thrust your own hands through this crack, or take the consequences."

The man laughed raucously as he obeyed the mandate, and put his hands through the door.

"You're a fine bunch!" he sneered "Not one of you caught on Had to have a woman tip you off! But what I'll do to that dame when I get out of this! She'll wish she'd never been born"

My father paid no attention to him But his voice was like a whiplash in its swift commands

"Mass yourselves at this opening," he said. "When I unlock the door and pull it open, three of you grab him and lash him to that strongest cot over there. Then fasten the cot to the iron pipe running up the wall.

"One of you will guard the wounded man on the floor until the others have finished. Then come back and put the wounded man on one of the other cots. You won't need to tie him down. One of you watching him, with the others in call, will be sufficient Now, are you ready?"

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, November 29.

CONTINUED opportunity for working for the endurance and stability of high goals the foundations of which were laid yesterday are assured by very auspicious astral forces. Old obligations, reasonable adherence to the demands of duty, hard work, fidelity, justice and clear thinking should advance by sustained effort to a place of solidity and future security. But beware schemes, dishonesty, jealousy and foul play, be magnanimous, just, have merit, precision, in all things attempted, and there will be recognition from those in place and power, pleasant associations, travel, happy adventure and enduring good fortune. Personal joys reward.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is stand at the brink of a year of reward of merit. Fidelity, sense of duty and obligation, both private, social and business may be due for recognition, appreciation and fitting recompense, both of a private and public nature. This combination shall assure a future of place, prestige, enduring good fortune and security, with pleasant relations, adventure, perhaps deferred romance, with all round prosperity, solidity and happiness. But should jealousy, enmity, betrayal appear, continue anyway to be just as generous and magnanimous.

A child born on this day should be unusually endowed with abilities, talents and sterling qualities to assure it a useful, progressive, happy and honored life

CLASS TO MEET.

SIGHT RETURNS, HE'S SURPRISED OVER FASHIONS

Yale Student Credits Vitamin Tablets, Doctors Are Rather Skeptical.

(By International News Service)

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Regaining his sight after five years of blindness, Bernard M. Kellmurray, 32-year-old Yale graduate student, today expressed "amazement" over the change in women's styles.

Kellmurray, whose sight has returned, without scientific explanation, observed that the latest styles are "less feminine." He characterized present wardrobes as having more zip and more emphasis on the "curves."

Kellmurray, who has been working as a freshman adviser, was stricken in 1936 while working as an auditor in the department of interior in Washington. His ailment was diagnosed at the time as retro-vulvarneuritis.

The Yale graduate said he discontinued medical treatment in 1937 because no improvement was brought about, and in 1939 he re-entered Yale. His seeing-eye dog, Shep, has led him about the campus, and his class books have been read to him.

The youth was at a loss to explain the sudden return of his sight, and the only possible explanation that he could offer was that he has been taking three vitamin B-1 tablets a day for the past two months to improve a run-down condition.

New Haven eye specialists expressed doubt that the taking of the tablets could have restored the sight, but withheld any opinion explaining that the full medical history of the case would have to be studied.

(In New York Dr. Norman Jolliffe, head of the medical service of the Bellevue hospital psychiatric division, said vitamin B-1 might cure some cases of hysterical blindness but he did not think it would effect blindness of an organic nature.)

Kellmurray said his sight was restored to his right eye two weeks ago, but then blindness returned. The next day he could see dimly, and since then his sight had gradually become more and more clear until now, fitted with glasses, he can read print.

"My first impressions were mixed and confused but I found no difficulty in recognizing objects once familiar to me," he said. "The styles of the new autos are different but not surprising. And how women's clothes have changed!"

"It is tremendously exciting to see for the first time people I have known so well in the last five years. It is like being an old grad coming back for a class reunion."

BOY SCOUTS GUESTS OF CLUB

After a brief talk on scouting by Scout Executive Floyd F. Dent, six boys chosen from the Friendly house Scout troop No. 10 each made a few remarks on scouting and expressed their thanks to the sponsor of the Friendly house troop the Kiwanis club at the Kiwanis club luncheon meeting yesterday in the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Chosen by the troop to represent it at the affair were John Uzunoff, Samuel and Richard Christ, Gerald Sellers, Edwin Sneuffer and Howard Miller.

Movies of scouting trips to Gatton Rocks and northern Canada were shown afterwards to about 65 Kiwanians.

Swastika In Knox's Office!

What's this, a German swastika in U. S. Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox's office in Washington? That's right, as you can see. The banner was taken from the German merchant ship Odenwald seized by U. S. naval forces in the south Atlantic when the ship was found falsely flying the American flag. The banner then was presented to Knox by the crew of the navy cruiser which took the German vessel into custody.

NEW ENGLAND MUSEUM HOUSES OLDEST PIANO IN THE U. S.

(By International News Service)

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.—The most commented upon piece of furniture in the John Paul Jones House, a museum of antiques and relics is said to be the oldest piano in the United States. The piano in excellent state of preservation was built in 1763 in London by Johann Zumpe, inventor of the grand piano.

Brought to this country 20 years after for a wealthy United States family, the piano received attention during its passage over the ocean so that its strings would be kept from rusting. But after arrival in New York the much drier atmosphere caused the woodwork to crack somewhat.

For many years the piano was handed down from generation to generation until given to the son of the late G. Alexander Emery of Boston. Not realizing its value the son used the piano as a bench on which he stored and mixed paints in his local paint shop.

Shortly before his death the piano was purchased by an antique collector in Portsmouth. The instrument was cleaned and then loaned to the museum.

NEW BRITISH CRUISER TANK CALLED FASTEST IN WORLD

(By International News Service)

LONDON — The ministry of supply recently released Britain's latest type of cruiser tank from the secret list, where she has been known as Cruiser V. Official name is the Covenanter, in memory of Beaverbrook's Presbyterian ancestry.

Each tank, marked with a victory V, weighs 17 tons when in operation, has a top speed of up to 40 miles on hour, and is described as the most comfortable and fastest tank in the world.

Number one test driver is ex-jockey James Macpherson, who puts them through their paces on the rough, moorland country surrounding one of the production factories. For 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, these tanks are being produced and manufacture now takes a third of the time originally taken.

This one factory produces scores a month, with recruits from many peacetime professions working lathes, power presses and riveting machines. Workers include an ex-cook, a coffin-maker, prison warden, lion-tamer, barber, circus-clown, and a manicurist.

Soldiers of the tank regiment have been examining the various parts, in all, totalling more than 3,000, as they are produced, and have watched all stages of manufacture.

Covenanters are sisters to the "Crusader." They are easily maneuvered, have a rare turn of speed, are excellently armoured, and have formidable firing power.

They have features never yet seen on any other tank. "Give us a sufficient number of these tanks," said a tank officer, "and we cannot help but win the war."

One-third of Russia's cultivated soil is planted in wheat.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

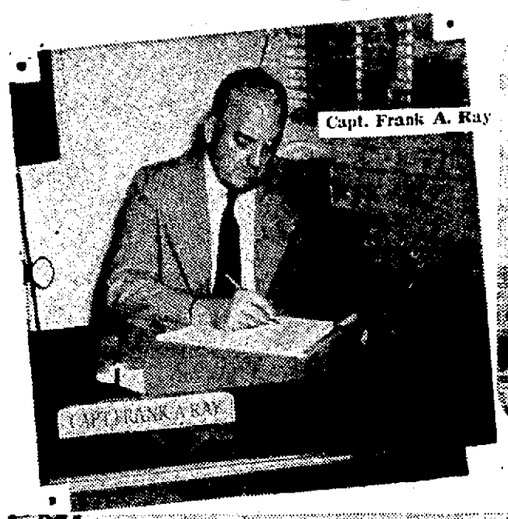
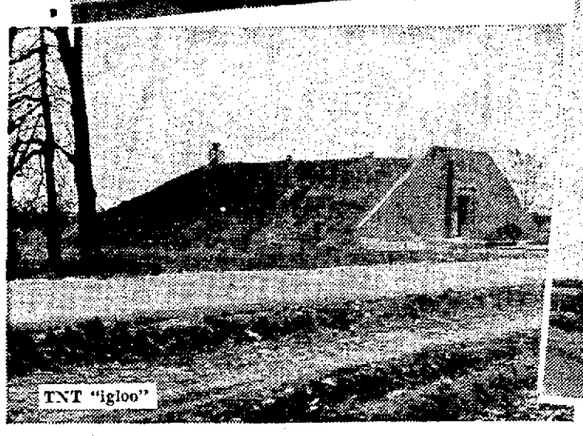
Rush World's Largest TNT Plant to Completion Near Sandusky





The largest TNT plant in the world is being rushed to completion near Sandusky, under the direction of Capt. Frank A. Ray, U. S. A., who is in charge of spending most of the $32,000,000 appropriated for construction of the Plum Brook ordnance works. In the wash house, the mixed product is washed and flaked before being stored. The 30-foot barrier behind the house is earth-filled as a safeguard in case of an explosion; the chutes are to permit employes quick egress. Before shipment to shell loading plants, the TNT is stored in one of the 99 "igloos" on grounds, each of which can hold 300,000 pounds of the explosive.

CANADA WELDS WOMEN'S UNIT INTO AIR ARM

Initial Force of 2,000 Will Be Counterpart of British 'WAAFS'

(By United Press)

MONTREAL — Canada is recruiting women to aid in the empire's air war.

The first 150 recruits for the Canadian Women's Auxiliary Air Force have started training, and within six months 2,000 more will be called.

Ready to serve anywhere "in Canada or beyond," the C. W. A. A. F. will be the equivalent of Britain's W.A.A.F.—or "Waafs," as the term goes for these British women who ferry fighter planes, and work as spotters, mechanics, riggers, radio technicians, messengers and orderlies.

And as in Britain, their principal function will be to release as many men as possible for combat duty.

That does not mean that Canada's women air force members will fill any soft jobs. On the contrary, they will have many "dirty" jobs—but vital ones.

Canadian women are flocking to fill them.

"The mass of inquiries so far," said one spokesman, "has just about overwhelmed every recruiting officer in the country."

It is an alert and intelligent section of Canada's women who have answered this call. They will be stationed at R.C.A.F. stations, will live as air force members do, and undergo the same discipline.

The recruits will be trained by air force instructors, and by women from Britain's "Waafs," who are coming to Canada for this job. Headquarters will be in Toronto.

The service will have its own officers and N.C.O.'s, with ranks parallel to those in R.C.A.F. They will be responsible for the discipline and welfare of the airwomen.

As in the R. C. A. F., there will be no favoritism or special privileges which will determine selection of officers. Candidates will work their way up from the ranks.

The commanding officer will be an air commandant, and be equivalent to an air force air commodore.

What qualifications must the prospective airwomen have to be accepted? She must be between the ages of 21 and 49; she must be over 5 feet in height, conform to weight standards, and be in "A" medical category. The applicant also must be of good character and have a high school education. She must be able to pass an appropriate trade test. Birth, education and registration certificates must be produced. No civil servants or married women with young children will be accepted.

It was from Martinique that Josephine, empress of Napoleon, went to France.

REHEARSALS PROGRESSING ON 'THE MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER'

Mansfield Community Players will present the topsy-turvy world into which a lionized New York literary figure casts a mid-western Ohio household when they raise the curtain on "The Man Who Came to Dinner," next Tuesday night in John Simpson auditorium.

The production which launches the 16th season of the organization is fast being whipped into shape by Mrs. E. K. Bacon, director. Rehearsals, held for the past few weeks in a room at the court house, will be transferred Sunday afternoon to the Junior high school.

Ticket reservations opened yesterday on the mezzanine of the Mansfield Leland hotel. From now on the ticket board will be located at the Tawse pharmacy in the hotel building.

The play has one of the largest casts ever presented by the organization and introduces a number of faces new to the audience this year.

Ernest J. Wesson makes his initial bow in the central role of "Sheridan Whiteside," New York literary figure, wit and raconteur. Generally conceded to be patterned after the personality of Alexander Woollcott, noted drama critic, the part was played on the New York stage by Woollcott himself.

Two other characters typed after other theatrical personalities, Noel Coward and Harpo Marx, will be enacted by George Tuttle and John Lawrence Mellert. Tuttle will play the Coward role of "Beverly Carlton," and Mellert that of "Banjo," the Marxian part.

The roles of "Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stanley," in whose home the action takes place, will be presented by Don Denman and Sylvia Frankel. William Zimmerman and Joan Cattell will play the Stanley son and daughter, "Dick" and "Joan."

Others in the cast are: Gerald Van Arnam, "Dr. Bradley;" Lois Shuey Weingartner, "Miss Preen;" Whiteside's nurse; Anna Menrath, "Maggie Cutler," his secretary; Alvin Kreig, "Jefferson," a newspaperman; Walter Mickey, "Metz," an old professional; Dorothea Grimes, the maid; Neil Thomas, the butler; Ethel Van Arnam, "Mrs. McCutcheon;" Dorothy Bacon, "Mrs. Dexter."

Miss Virginia Jenkins, "Loraine Sheldon," a New York actress; Mrs. H. H. Schettler, "Harriet Stanley," an aunt; William Flinn, an expressman; Ferd Loykovich, "Sandy;" Richard Nixon, "Westcott;" Richard Olin, a radio technician; Albert Jarvis, a prisoner; James Peck and Bruce Hardy, sheriffs, Albert Rosenkranz, prison guard.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Indian stories and the adventures of two California boys who needed money for college expenses are set forth in two new books in the children's department at the Mansfield Public Library.

WINABOJO, by James Cloyd Bowman — This book tells the story of Winabojo and his leadership of his people by telling you a series of Indian stories. Some were told to him when he was a little boy named Thunder-Stone, and others are told about him as he grew into manhood. The book is recommended for all who want an exciting book.

OFFSHORE GOLD, by Pedar Larssen — Two California boys needed money for college expenses, and they noticed a good market for the livers of sharks which were used for vitamin products. They read in books how shark-fishing was done and equipped their own outfit only to find treachery among their competitors. They also had trouble getting their livers to market. Their adventures make interesting reading for ambitious boys.

FIRE WITH LIGHT BEAMS

EL PASO, Tex. —(U.P.)— Tiny beams of light are being "drafted" for service in America's national defense program and Ft. Bliss soldiers practice firing artificial sunlight at a moving target range designed by Major O. E. Carleton. Pinch hitting for ammunition, the beams give soldiers familiarity with the technique of aiming and firing a machine gun.

Loudonville

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Miles returned to their home in Columbus after a visit with his parents Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Miles.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Denny visited recntly with Mr. and Mrs. Allan Brennstuhl in Perysville.

Bert Allison of Newoka, Okla., arrived for an extended visit with his daughter, Mrs. Gilman Temple and family.

Robert Smith was brought Sunday from the Samaritan hospital in Ashland.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gruver are the parents of a daughter born Sunday at Beason hospital in Wooster.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Mapes and family of Massillon, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mapes and Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Mapes of Mansfield and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mapes and son Dick of route 97 visited with their mother, Mrs. Ida Mapes Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Weirick visited recently with their daughter Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Black in Millersburg.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Andorach returned home after a visit with their cousin, Mr. and Mrs. George Hummell at Cambridge, Ohio. Mrs. Hummell accompanied them home for a few days visit.

Mrs. J. F. Greer returned home after several days visit with relatives at Chicago, Ill.

Dr. H. P. Petty returned to New York City after a visit here with his family.

Mrs. Earl Simmons returned home after spending the past two weeks with her son, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Simmons at Evansville, Ind.

GEN. JOHNSON: Seek Compromise on Price Control Bill

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—There have been a good many rumors and reports and, recently, a widely syndicated gossip column to the effect that leaders of the America First committee have been planning or preparing the organization of a new or anti-war third party.

Johnson

I hesitate to believe this, because, while my name is still on the letterheads of that committee, I have disavowed the doctrines and statements of several of its spokesmen, and no longer receive any communications from it, nor am I considered in its councils. My reasons for this have been sufficiently stated. But I have never heard of any purpose within that committee to start a new political party. In fact, I have always understood that its objects were entirely non-partisan.

Any other course would be almost lunatic. If we do not go to outright war, there would be no reason for an anti-war party because the decision for non-belligerency would be a registration of majority opinion in the two old parties. If we do go to outright war, an anti-war party could not be tolerated because of the necessity for national unity in war.

In this intermediate period, it is a right, as well as a duty, to discuss head-long action in the direction of involvment of our country unthriftily and unwisely in military operations beyond the scope of our national interests. Even if war approaches much closer or actually engulfs us, it would be a dangerous state of affairs if blundering and improper military and naval operations were not subject to criticism here as they are in England.

Along these lines there is a sufficient scope for the activities of the America First committee and for independent commentators. A distinction should be made between the two however. Independent personal analysis on the writer's own responsibility are a proper function of a newspaperman in a free press, even in time of war. The organization of popular groups swayed by oratory and emotional appeal stands on a slightly different footing, especially in time of war.

Because I did not recognize this difference soon enough, I thoughtlessly allowed my name to be used in connection with America First. Because I recognize it now, I am taking my present position.

That is a consideration, however, which applies with equal force to organized groups to get us into war as well as to organized groups to keep us out of war and, in my opinion, the former have been even less discreet and objective than the latter.

Apart from these later remarks, the organization of either a war party or a peace party is not consistent with the true principles of our form of government. There is room enough within the old parties for the people to register their determination.

Regardless of recent apparent developments to the contrary, I still do not believe that any administration can force this country into outright war without the approval of congress, and the congress cannot be persuaded or compelled to give that approval in the absence of the approval of most of our citizens.

It is true that we are in a period of hysteria and emotionalism that has resulted in some of the most fantastic action ever taken by a nation.

But between this and a deliberate decision to engage us in a commitment to bloody military conquest on land, in Europe or Asia or both, is a step so far that, in my opinion, even hysteria and emotion will not carry us.

ARBITRATORS WAIT WORD FROM 'LITTLE STEEL'

Mediation Board Confers After Steelman Sends Wire To Magnates.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—The three man arbitration board set up to settle the "captive" coal mine dispute today awaited word from the magnates of "little steel" on whether they would accept the decision of the board on the union shop demands of John L. Lewis as they again went into session behind closed doors.

The initial meeting was halted after reports circulated that several steel leaders would not abide by the decision of the board which was created by President Roosevelt after Lewis ordered 53,000 striking "captive" miners back to work. Dr. John R. Steelman, director of the United States conciliation service and chairman of the board, telegraphed nine "captive" mine owners for clarification of their position.

Besides Dr. Steelman, who represents the public interests, the board consists of President Benjamin—Fairless of United States Steel representing the industry, and Lewis who represents the United Mine Workers of America, a CIO affiliate.

The Steelman telegram, addressed to leaders of the "captive" mines, read:

"In order to reaffirm and clarify your position in respect to the captive coal case now up for arbitration:

"(1) Do you accept the decision of the arbitration board as binding on your company?

"(2) Do you desire that your statement before the full national defense mediation board as of Nov. 1 and or Nov. 4 is a complete statement of your position in respect to the controversy?

"(3) Do you wish to appear before the board?"

The telegram, on which an "immediate reply" was asked, was sent to Thomas W Girdler of Republic Steel; Eugene G. Grace of Bethlehem; Frank Purnell of Youngstown Sheet and Tube; E. T. Weir of National Steel, W. H. Halloway of Wheeling Steel; F. O. Rufnagle of Crucible Steel, H A. Berg of Woodward Coal and Iron, and Leigh Willard of Semet-Solvay and James W. Carter of Carter Coal company.

Probably for the first time in the county's history, all the boys and girls who are graduated next spring from village and centralized high schools will receive diplomas that look alike. It will also be the first time that the county school board has supplied the diplomas and folders to hold them. County Superintendent Boyd Robinson will present the diploma problem to the county board at its monthly meeting Saturday. The board is expected to choose the style then that will be used in the county's rural schools. The county board purchased the diplomas used last spring, but the schools supplied their own folders and most of them were different.

If ever there's the slightest doubt in your mind as to the "bigness" of a ton, just call Prospect school, for any pupil there can give you the answer, pronto. Prospect pupils have just completed the task of gathering more than four tons of old newspapers, which have been sold to help the P. T A. raise money for a new movie machine recently purchased for the school. A total of 12,385 pounds was collected and hauled to the school by auto, by wagon, and by hand, after which the sound picture "Jack and the Beanstalk" was shown to the children on the new projector.

Three Madison township boys who admitted breaking into the East Mansfield school Tuesday night and making their "get-away" on three stolen tricycles escaped penally yesterday afternoon in juvenile court because they had never been in trouble before. The boys said they obtained 94 cents in change, three pints of chocolate milk, and six ice cream bars in the school caleteria. They broke a corner of the glass in the back door to enter the building. Taken into custody yesterday by Sheriff Frank E. Robinson and Juvenile Officer Ralph Carroll, they were warned in court that another citation may have serious consequences Two of the youths are 13 and the other 14.

HOUSE DEMS STRIVE FOR VOTE TODAY

Ready To Make 'Deal' With GOP To Obtain Passage of Measure.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—In an 11th hour fight for passage of their price control bill, House Democratic leaders today launched a campaign of appeasement designed to secure enough Republican votes to save the measure from being sent back to committee and thus temporarily shelved.

The move came as the House was called into session an hour earlier than usual in a drive to secure by nightfall a final vote on the measure permitting the government to place ceilings on all commodity prices, rents in defense areas, and, within drastic limits, on farm goods.

Prior to voting today on the many amendments offered to the bill, Democrats on the banking committee met with House leaders to discuss strategy in the face of growing demands that the measure be returned to the committee for redrafting.

After the meeting, members announced that, while an amendment to control wages—now specifically exempted in the bill—probably will be offered, it will receive no serious support, also, they said, no concerted attempt will be made to tighten up the provision which bars farm price ceilings at below boom-year levels—a provision which Price Administrator Leon Henderson has condemned.

Rep. Steagall (D) Ala., chairman of the banking committee conferred singly with most Republicans of the body and, in their words "talked compromise."

"They are ready to deal now, but whether anything satisfactory can be worked out remains to be seen," one GOP leader said.

The Republicans have given notice that they will vote solidly to send the bill back to committee unless they are successful in a threefold program—to defeat proposals that the government be permitted to license business, to buy and sell in the open market as a means of checking inflation, and to put over a proposed board of review with power to veto ceilings imposed by the price administrator.

It was indicated that a compromise will be worked out on the last of the three demands. It was also indicated that there will not be serious opposition to a proposal to curb the buy and sell powers asked by the administration.

The licensing provision, however, is expected to be put to the test of a vote. If leaders find they have enough votes to put it over, they figure they can pass the bill with it. If not they feel the Republicans will then vote with them to send the measure to the senate.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Manhattan Nights.

IN A WAY, though not in the way you might suppose, there is more romantic nostalgia on Broadway than there is anywhere else in the world It's an important commercial commodity—glance at the success stories from Tin-Pan Alley to Times Square. Songs like "Thanks For the Memory," "That Old Feeling" and "These Foolish Things" are alumnae of the hit parade.

Kilgallen

Stories of the "To Mary, With Love" school are gobbled up by the glossy magazines Torch singers who sob of a love grown cold invariably manage to keep warm as toast in mink and ermine.

No tourist's paradise has ever advertised its moonlight and blue skies with as much ardor as Manhattan has put into its woe-begone whispering campaign that brags "There's a broken heart for every light on Broadway."

Yes, the Gay White Way has found it Pays to Agonize.

Letting your heart live in the past is mainly song and story stuff. When it comes to yearning for yesterday's heart throb, most Broadwayites are like the waitress who sees so much food that she loses her appetite.

Would you like an example?

Well, it was just about a half a dozen years ago that Louis Prima opened the first and original Famous Door. Prima was an overnight rage.

A young girl fel madly, wildly, head over heels in love with Prima. The columns buzzed with rumors of an early wedding, and the girl and Louis didn't deny it.

Martha Raye was the girl, and when she had finished her singing stint in a near-by night club she would rush out while the audience was still applauding and hurry over to the Famous Door to spend every available minute with her Dream Prince.

Of course, Martha has been married and divorced three times since then, But each time one of her marriages ended, the Broadway boys and girls would shake their heads and say that there had been only one love in her life. That she would never forget Louis Prima.

The other night Martha marched into Leon and Eddie's on that same Swing Street, with a party En route to her table she stopped at the bar to chat with a friend. Maybe Martha just didn't look where she was going, but as she turned to go to her table she bumped right into a lad standing alone at the bar.

Yes, you guessed it—the lad was Louis Prima.

Did they pretend to be indifferent, to hide the hurt that was there? Did they look embarrassed and flustered?

Not Martha. Not Louis, either.

"Hi, son, what's cookin'?" said Miss Raye.

"Everything's solid, Jackson," quoth Mr. Prima. Then he smiled casually and turned to the bartender to order another of the same.

GRANGE LEADER DEATH MOURNED

Walter F. Kirk Succumbs To Injuries After Auto Strikes Tree.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Ohio agriculture today mourned the passing of Walter F. Kirk, 60-year-old master of the Ohio State Grange and an outstanding leader in national grange activities. He died in a Columbus hospital late yesterday of injuries suffered when his automobile crashed into a tree near Westerville earlier in the day.

According to his attending physician, Kirk suffered compound fractures of both legs and several lacerations on the head and body. He was given blood transfusions and oxygen throughout the day to no avail.

Kirk was returning to state grange headquarters in Columbus from a Stark county grange meeting near Canton when the accident occurred.

His widow, Ida, a daughter, Mrs. Robert Randall, and two sons Edsel and Dean Kirk, of Port Clinton, survive.

Kirk was a native of La Carne, near Port Clinton, in Ottawa county, and had always lived in that region. He operated the family farm at La Carne for many years.

He first became affiliated with the state grange organization in 1917 when he was appointed a state deputy by Louis J. Taber, of Columbus, then state master and more recently national master. Kirk served on the executive committee of the state grange before being named master in 1928.

At the time of his death, Kirk was a member of the national grange's committees on agriculture, finance and foreign relations.

YOUTHS WHO HATED SCHOOL ON WAY TO BE TRIED FOR MURDER

YOUTHS WHO— .. ..

(Pictures on Page 7)

LEESBURG, Va — Two sullen, teen-aged boys who hated school and work were on their way back here today to be tried for the murder of Ward Loveless, 51, wealthy land-owner and Washington attorney.

The youths were Paul "Pete" Hoback, 18, a short, dark native of the mining town of Bluefield, W. Va., and Thomas Peters, 16, a tall blond from Norfolk, Va.

Hoback is the son of a railroad foreman and one of eight children Peters is an orphan who said he had "drifted around" for several years.

The confessions the boys allegedly have made may send them to the electric chair. Police captured them in Appalachia, Va., yesterday to where they had fled from Cumberland, Ky., upon reading newspaper reports of Loveless' slaying. They will arrive here today in the custody of Loudoun county officials.

Commonwealth Attorney Charles Harrison said the boys had admitted breaking into Loveless' pre-revolutionary manor house Sunday, ransacking it for valuables and then waiting two hours to rob the owner "because he was the richest man around Leesburg and made $600 an hour." When Loveless returned home after midnight, the boys said they attacked him.

Their robbery failed. They had only 50 cents when arrested. Loveless had no money in his wallet and the only items found in the stolen car which was recovered in Cumberland were two antique pistols.

Police said Hoback, who was discharged as a Loveless farm hand a month ago because he was "no damn good," contended that Loveless, who was shot four times, was alive when they forced him into a closet, barricaded the door with a heavy sideboard, and then drove away in one of the cars on the estate.

GET BACK PAY

Workmen Reimbursed In 'Little Steel' Strike Case.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Between 2,000 and 3,000 Republic Steel corporation employes were getting checks for back pay today, compensation for time at the end of the 1937 "little steel" strike.

The total amount was not announced, but union representatives recently estimated it at about $1,500,000. Tom M. Girdler, Republic chairman, once termed a $7,500,000 estimate a great exaggeration.

William Donovan, district director of the CIO Steel Workers organizing committee, said union members began receiving checks from the corporation yesterday. Company officials declined comment.

Republic carried to the United States Supreme Court, and lost, a suit contesting a ruling of the National Labor Relations Board, which ordered back pay for workmen who were not put back to work immediately after the strike.

AUTOS LOOTED

Tires, Wheels, Bumper Stolen From Three Cars In City.

Auto accessory thieves were busy in Mansfield again yesterday according to police reports which showed that wheels and tires had been stripped from two cars and a bumper guard taken from a third.

Two cars, one parked directly back of the other, in the rear of 206 North Adams street, were each relieved of a wheel and tire while their owners were at work at the R. O. Darling company between 7 a. m. and 5 p. m.

The automobile belonging to Bertis Riffle, Ashland, R. D. 3, had been jacked up in the rear so that a rear wheel and tire could be removed. A tire on a car belonging to Fred Schoolcraft, Perrysville, R. D. 1, was removed from the rear bracket.

Mrs. Harold Armbruster, 244 Wood street, reported that a bumper guard had been stolen from her car while it was parked on West Second street.

Long Underwear Comes Back But Without Itches

NEW YORK —(INS)— Attention you fashion plates!

Long underwear for men is coming back, but without the scratchy features of the longies worn in grandpop's day. Spurred by huge orders placed by the army and navy, underwear manufacturers today made it plain that two-piece woolies will be worn extensively by American manhood

The army is awaiting delivery of 7,500,000 of these modern combination, streamlined, virtually itch-proof suits. The navy is getting 346,000 sets.

At any rate, the manufacturers report that production of long underwear is up 150 per cent over two years ago.

TAKEN BY DEATH

Lakeville Woman Dies of Heart Attack After Crash.

MILLERSBURG — Victim of a heart attack following an automobile accident in which she escaped injury, Mrs. Anna Markley of near Lakeville, died in a physician's office at Fredericksburg last night.

Mrs Markley had been taken to the doctor's office for observation after a car driven by her son, Melvin, collided with a car operated by Mrs. Doris Welty, 19, of Big Prairie on state route 226, east of Holmes county village about 8:30 p. m. yesterday.

Sheriff H. R. Weiss said the Markley car struck the machine driven by Mrs. Welty when the latter made a left turn in front of his machine. The cars plunged over a culvert into six feet of water but no one was injured.

The sheriff said no charges had been filed against Mrs. Welty.

Mrs. Markley's body was removed to the Elliott Funeral Home here pending funeral arrangements.

THEATERS

Family Drama.

"One Foot in Heaven," Warner Brothers' production of Hartzell Spence's best-seller by the same name, opens Saturday at the Ohio. Starring Fredric March and Martha Scott the picture tells the warm genial story of family life as it was lived by a country minister's family after the turn of the century. The story, essentially true, was based on the life of the author's father, Rev. William H. Spence, who took a pretty bride to his first charge in Iowa. The struggle to get along and win the understanding of their fellow townsfolk and parish in whatever charge they found themselves forms the story. Frankie Thomas, Beulah Bondi and Gene Lockhart are in the cast.

Zestful Comedy.

"It Started With Eve," a zestful romance starring Deanna Durbin, Charles Laughton and Robert Cummings, begins Saturday at the Madison. Based on a deception started when Cummings presented a hatcheck girl as his fiancee, purely as a matter of convenience, the picture gives Laughton the comedy role of an eccentric millionaire who likes the way the hatcheck girl gets around. Deanna Durbin has an array of new songs and the cast includes Guy Kibbee and Walter Catlett. "The Last of the Duanes," the second picture, has George Montgomery, Lynne Roberts and Eve Arden.

Ghost Comedy.

Ritter in "Roaring Frontiers," is "Hold That Ghost," is the attraction at the Ritz. Ted Lewis and his entertainers are featured in the picture also Joan Davis and the Andrews Sisters. "The Parson of Panamint," with Charles Ruggles, Ellen Drew and Phil Terry is the second picture.

Runyon Classic.

Damon Runyon's short story classic, "Tight Shoes," opening Saturday at the Park has Broderick Crawford, John Howard and Binnie Barnes in the leading roles. The story traces the hilarious misadventures of Crawford after he insists on buying shoes too small. They furnish him with a wrong hunch at the race track and trouble begins. Binnie Barnes has the role of a chorus girl and the cast includes Leo Carrillo and Anne Gwynne. "The Devil Pays Off," the co-attraction deals with the efforts of a former lieutenant commander in the navy to uncover an international plot. William Wright and Margaret Tallichet are featured.

Submarine Picture.

Richard Greene and Nancy Kelly are appearing in "Submarine Patrol," at the Majestic. Preston Foster and George Bancroft are in the cast. Bill Elliott and Tex Ritter in "Roaring Frontiers," is the co-attraction.

Here's National Symphony Which Appears Here Monday

Mansfield Civic Music association patrons will hear the National Symphony orchestra of Washington, D. C, play its second concert here within two years when it appears in Mansfield Senior high school auditorium Monday at 8:15 p. m. Directed by Hans Kindler, who organized the orchestra 10 years ago, the ensemble is recognized as one of he major symphony organizations in the United States today. Dr. Kindler's name has appeared along with those of Toscanini and Stravinsky in the symphony broadcasts that have introduced outstanding "men of the baton."

An audience of 1,200 Civic Music patrons will hear the concert and no individual admission tickets will be available. The orchestra is shown here in the picture at the top while Dr. Kindler is shown below.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA RETURNS IN CIVIC MUSIC PERFORMANCE

The National Symphony orchestra of Washington, D. C, returns to Mansfield Monday night for a second concert within two years under the auspices of the Civic Music association.

Directed by Hans Kindler, the orchestra will appear in the Senior high school auditorium at 8:15 p. m. before the 1,200 or more patrons who hold season tickets for the association concert course this year.

This comparatively young symphony which is recognized as a cultural force in the nation's capital was organized by Dr. Kindler in 1931. Through his boundless enthusiasm it has become one of the leading major symphony orchestras in this country.

When Dr. Kindler established the National Symphony he had already achieved world fame as a cello virtuoso. At an age when most young artists are struggling for their first hearing he was appearing as soloist with such renowned conductors as Stokowski and Furtwangler.

At the invitation of Stokowski he has conducted the Philadelphia orchestra and has taken part in radio symphony broadcasts that have presented such outstanding "men of the baton" as Toscanini and Stravinsky.

When the National Symphony was organized Kindler insisted on players who could give more to the orchestra than instrumental facility. He demanded their spiritual co-operation and willingness to become part of a closely knit ensemble, factors responsible for the eloquence of this symphonic instrument today.

Admission to the Mansfield concert is by season ticket only and no single admission tickets will be available at the door.

Claim Explosive Rivets To Speed Plane Production

WILMINGTON, Del.—(INS)—Explosive rivets are science's latest contribution to America's booming airplane industry.

The new rivet is the answer to aviation's problem of speedily fastening sections of all-metal airplanes where points to be riveted are accessible from only one side. And there are lots of such points in the modern airship.

Radically new in design, the rivet has a small quantity of high explosive in a cavity at the end of its shank. When the workman detonates this charge by heat applied to the rivet head through an electric gun, the explosion expands the end of the shank and sets the rivet, E. I. Du Pont de Nemours company spokesmen explain.

Du Pont executives revealed that one workman may install 15 to 20 rivets a minute, once they are in place. Other so-called "blind" fasteners can be set only at a rate of two to four a minute by skilled workmen.

MACHINE CUTS DOWN MANPOWER

WATERTOWN, S. D.—(U.P.)—S. G. Washburn, Goodwin, S. D., farmer, has invented a machine designed to eliminate threshing crew field pitchers.

Washburn, who tested the machine on his farm, said it did the work of six bundle wagons.

The machine will pick up bundles, load them on a conveyor belt in a rack and unload them at the thresher.

The Walls Came Tumbling + +

CHAPTER III

"He would be. Shrewd fellow, Jed." Andre watched a stream of cream curl down through the contents of his iced coffee tumbler, gray head tipped meditatively. "There have been a lot of country fires off and on since the depression. Pays to keep things insured."

"Andre!" Mrs. Steel put down her knife and fork to stare across the table accusingly. "You're never hinting . . ."

"Dear no. I was just thinking if my stock were worth anything it might pay me to be careless with a can of cleaning fluid some day. But I'm too near the fire hall." He glanced at Carol. "How about the insurance on this place, Cassandra? I don't believe I ever asked you, did I?"

"I've got some," was the tart reply. "But don't you get the idea you're going to set my house on fire. Not that I'd put it past you. I know well enough you smoke in bed."

"I pledge you my word. But I shall be interested to see if Jed builds another big barn or decides he can do with a little one. After all," he mused, "a man must turn an honest penny these days if he can. There are ways now and then . . . with luck. Carol, my dear?" He changed the topic abruptly. There was a teasing light in his blue eyes.

"Yes?"

"I think someone is going for a little ride this evening."

"Thank you. I'd love to. When are we starting?"

"I'm not taking you. The oil has to be changed in the wheelbarrow before I can run it. I mean Wige. I saw him polishing his car as we came in town. It must be nice to keep bankers' hours . . . and a jallopy."

Mrs. Steel sniffed audibly.

"Was he?" Carol inquired without any show of interest.

"He was. Pleasant night for a drive. But 'ware the moon. It's in the full. Treacherous. It just might carry your swain off his feet."

"It could happen."

"You're hopeless," Andre sighed. "I'm beginning to think my passion for romance passed you by. A little more sugar if you will."

Carol passed him the old-fashioned silver bowl in silence. She could not respond to his light mood now. Perhaps it was that mention of Wige, otherwise Wilbur Lennon.

Wige was accepted by all Jericho as Carol's boy friend—the town's way of saying fiance. The two had been playmates and schoolmates, "kept company" in the years following high school. Wilbur invariably was referred to as a nice boy, steady and industrious. Carol sometimes wished he might have scattered just a few and not too-wild oats in the background of his excellence, but she was very fond of him for all that.

Numerous times during the last two years he had proposed and she had hesitated to give him the answer he wanted, vaguely disappointed at his lack of ardor although it had no bearing on her decision. He couldn't help being practical about everything, she supposed.

Wige was a teller in the Jericho Savings bank and his job no doubt was as secure as the institution itself, but his salary never would amount to much so long as old Silas Higgins employed him. Still worse, he was the sole support of a widowed mother and a crippled younger brother. They owned a place at the edge of town and Wige believed if Carol would marry him and come to the Lennon home they could manage nicely. That was the main reason for her continued refusals, although there had been times when the future seemed so dreary that she was tempted to try it. The only near security in sight, the one escape.

"You'll be jumping out of the frying pan into the fire," Aunt Cassie told her promptly when Carol hinted at the idea in a despondent moment. "I'm not saying anything against Amanda Lennon . . . much. But she's a whiner. And let me tell you one thing. I've kept my eyes open a good many years and I've never yet seen a house big enough for two families. Different blood, I mean. You could be a sight worse off than you are now. Getting married isn't all there is, sometimes."

Andre's attitude had been quite different when Carol confided her problem. She told him almost at once, for he had a way of always understanding things. He was improvising on his zither and took a long moment before venturing the question:

"Do you love Wige?"

"I think so, Andy," was the hesitant answer. "But it's not the way . . . not the way I'd like it to be. I mean it isn't the way I've always thought and hoped love . . . Oh, you know what I mean!"

"Love's a very wonderful thing. Marvelous. I knew it once and I wouldn't trade the memory for anything I ever hope to have in this old world. If you could remember your mother . . ."

A plaintive little strain.

"Oh, I wish I could, Andy! I do wish she were . . ."

"Yes, yes. I know. If you're not altogether sure, my dear, no one can tell you. But don't spoil anything. That matters most." He played on.

Wige and his shiny little car did put in an appearance. There was another thing Carol thought as she watched the familiar figure saunter toward the porch. Wige didn't ask for dates. Almost invariably it was Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday evening. If he'd only be less automatic, make her guess now and then. So patiently methodical about things.

"Hello," was his nonchalant greeting. "Hot day, wasn't it? How about a little ride? Don't often see it like this in September."

"Not tonight, Wige." He was no more surprised at that abrupt refusal than Carol herself. He might want to park in the moonlight, say things she somehow couldn't listen to tonight. If he mentioned budgeting for four she could scream. "I . . . I have a headache," she lied uphappily. It's so nice and cool out here. Pull up the armchair and talk to me. I'm not dressed to go out, anyway." She tried to make it all sound sincere.

Wige complied, but conversational attempts proved a dismal failure. Carol felt a twinge of remorse. She hadn't intended to be rude and she was almost on the point of confessing that she had changed her mind and would go driving, when a long roadster swerved in behind Wilbur Lennon's parked car. It halted and a man got out.

The moon had risen above the trees. Its pale light revealed the newcomer as tall, broad-shouldered. He stared deliberately at the Steel house then started toward its picket gate. He limped.

Carol caught her breath sharply. It was Mr. Dennison!

When Doctor Silverthorne reached his office after supper he found C. H. Dennison in the reception room, foot propped on a chair and reading one of the old magazines about which he had spoken jeeringly to Carol Delaine. Dennison had been perfectly sincere in his promise to see the doctor. His father had been a physician and the young man was well aware that the seemingly trifling wound might have serious consequences. It made him more uneasy than he would have cared to admit.

He, too, must unconsciously have been influenced by the sound of Doctor Silverthorne's name for he sat staring almost rudely at the physician and made no attempt to introduce himself. But the doctor helped out with a blunt:

"You the man who ran a nail in your foot?"

"Why, yes. I was . . ."

"Come on in here."

Silverthorne unlocked the door to his inner office and entered, leaving his patient to follow. "Girl told me about it," he explained as he divested himself of his coat and hat. "Sit down there and take off your shoe. I'll look at you."

"Mind if I smoke here?"

"Not if you think it steadies your nerves. It doesn't."

In spite of the pain, Dennison could not but admire the quick sureness of the doctor's muscular hands as he probed and cleaned the wound. "Not very deep," was the verdict when the final dressing began. "Your'e a healthy-looking specimen and I don't think it will give you any trouble. Not spending any time here I reckon?"

"I'm likely to be around town for a few days."

"Then see me if it troubles you. Don't fool with it. And don't walk more than you must tonight. That's all."

* * *

Dennison slowly drew on his sock as if he wanted to prolong the situation a moment. In rather more friendly a fashion than he had exhibited before he observed:

"You have a very capable office . . . assistant."

"Carol's a good girl. I'm going to give you something to put on that cut tomorrow. You can change the dressing yourself. Watch out for any sign of inflammation of course." He was scribbling a few words on a gummed label.

"Thanks. She told me her name was Delaine.

"It is."

"May I ask if she is related to Andre Delaine here?"

"Her father."

"I see." Dennison drew on his shoe. "I never had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Delaine." Silverthorne shot him a glance over the top of his spectacles. "But I want to," his patient continued. "I gather that Mr. Delaine is something of a local . . . politician."

"Andy?" The doctor applied the label to the top of a tin box: "I've never so much as heard of his casting a vote. But I might be wrong," he amended with professional caution.

"I dare say he wouldn't be at his shop this evening."

"I doubt it."

"May I ask where he lives? I think I will call on him."

"Down the street about three blocks, on your right. He makes his home with his sister, Mrs. Steel. Directly across from the Episcopal church. Anybody can show you."

"Thanks." Dennison got to his feet. "How much do I owe you, doctor?"

"A dollar."

"For two visits . . . and medicine?"

"One visit. The salve goes with it."

"Very reasonable. Good night, doctor." A bill changed hands.

"Good night."

* * *

Dennison had no trouble locating the Steel house although he was not aware there was anyone on the porch until he reached the steps and Carol's slim figure emerged from the shadows.

"Ah, good evening, Miss Delaine."

GALION SCHOOL GROUP ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Mrs. Evelyn Poole Named To Head Parents Organization of Nursery Pupils.

GALION—Nursery school parents were told at a meeting Thursday night that Christmas should be a happy time for children and that they should not be overly excited.

Excitement, it was explained, is fun for adults, but not good for children. Toys for children should be suitable and sturdy, it was suggested by the school leaders. A discussion of suitable Christmas stories for children was also held.

It was also stressed that children should be allowed to help decorate the Christmas tree rather than be surprised with a sparkling tree on Christmas morning, as surprise overstimulates the child.

A committee to plan the Christmas celebration for the children at the school was appointed and is composed of Mrs. Sara Beegle, who is the school supervisor, together with Mrs. Clarence Price and Mrs. Josephine Ventrone.

Weights and heights of the children were also discussed by the parents and school staff members.

During the business session, the following officers were elected: president, Mrs. Evelyn Poole; vice president, Mrs. B. Calhoun; assistant secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Clarence Price.

At Thursday night's meeting of the Woman's Missionary society at Peace Lutheran parish house the following officers were chosen for the coming year: president, Mrs. L. E. Place; vice president, Mrs. A. J. Wittibschlager; secretary, Lois Smith; treasurer, Mrs. Vernon Williams.

The group planned to hold a Christmas party at the regular December meeting which has been set for Dec. 17. Two new members welcomed are Mrs. Ralph Smith and Mrs. Herman Sautter. The devotional leader was Emma Ricker, and business was conducted by Mrs. Wittibschlager.

The evening's program included the study topic presented by Mrs. Lloyd Rehl and Mrs. J. J. Stair; convention report, Mrs. Dora Burnett; and an article read by Alice Plack.

Edna Crall of Monroe, Mich., who is home this week with her mother, Mrs. Earl Crall of Harding way west, was honored guest at a party given Thursday evening by Mrs. Austin Thornton and daughter Carol of 60S Harding way west.

Miss Crall will be married here, Saturday noon, to Clayton Gessner of Monroe, Mich. The ceremony will take place at the home of the bride's uncle, U. E. Campbell. The bride-elect is a registered nurse and for the past four years has been employed in Monroe, Mich.

CRESTLINE CLUB HAS LUNCHEON

CRESTLINE — Alpha Sigma club members went to the Hotel Talbott in Galion for a luncheon this week and later returned to the home of Mrs. John Marquart for bridge games. Mrs. C. E. Iman and Mrs. C. B. Harmon received score awards.

The club will dispense with their Christmas party this year and instead will send a cash donation to Chinese relief.

Mrs. Iman will be hostess for the club's next regular meeting.

Joe Romano, Bill Pecht and Adam Brandt of Mansfield high's undefeated gridiron Tygers have just been named to the all-opponents all-star eleven picked by Springfield high's Wildcats.

Elroy (Lightnin') Jones was given honorable mention by the Springfield gridders.

The selections could mean that the Tyger stars honored by the Springfield players will have at least one vote for all-Ohio teams, besides the vote they have coming from their home town.

* * *

The Springfield selections return an honor given the Wildcats' Elmer Bean, picked at end on the all-opponents team named by the Tygers.

But oddly enough, when Springfield players voted on the most valuable member of their team for the past season, Bean wasn't the player so honored. The vote was a tie between Harry (Butch) Heaton, a guard, and Brooks Lawrence, sensational pass tosser.

And Heaton was elected honorary captain.

"Give yourself a pat on the back?" Why, where I come from, they pat each other. And where's that? Springfield. Hooray!

They're beating the anvil in Canton now. That you have on the word of Jack Maxwell of the Canton Repository who rushes to the defense of McKinley Coach Ben Schwartzwalder.

Maxwell says a great many Canton fans are naturally disgruntled over Massillon's 32 to 0 defeat of the Bulldogs, but that some are carrying their criticism too far. That's where the anvil chorus comes in.

He agrees that "something is wrong with the losing team," but declares that it isn't the fault of the coach or the players.

And here's his answer:

"The handwriting on the wall is becoming plainer every season. The Bulldogs may break the Tiger domination one of these years just on the law of averages, but the time has passed when McKinley can hope to compete on even terms with Massillon season after season, unless extraordinary steps are taken to keep McKinley on the same football plane."

* * *

Yes, it's as plain as the nose on the Bulldog's face that McKinley is losing a lot of good athletes to the new Canton high schools. But I didn't think we'd live to see the day in 1941 when McKinley would admit that it couldn't compete on even terms with Massillon. And neither did they after their tie with Mansfield and Mansfield's tie with Massillon.

Is it too early for Mansfield's bucket-tossing Tygers to begin worrying about Massillon's manipulators of the bounding spheroid?

The Tygers and Tigers do not meet on the cage court until Feb. 20 here at Mansfield, but it's all right to look now. And the peek will show you that Mickey McDade and Chuck Buttermore, stars of last year's state tourney semi-finalist team, and Joe Demando, veteran of the same club, are back in uniform again.

McDade and Buttermore were picked at forward and guard on the all-state team.

GIANT FIRST BASEMAN FACES ARMY INDUCTION

NEW YORK—(INS)—His appeal vetoed by the board of appeals, Babe Young, 26-year-old first baseman of the New York Giants today faced induction soon into the army.

Young, who led the Giants in runs batted in during the past season, listed his father as a dependent. Local draft board 245, Long Island City, said "No." Babe was married several years ago but is divorced.

Gridder Hits Road To Record

Penguin Soph Picked All-Ohio Second Time.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— A roly-poly football player for Youngstown college today is half-way along the trail of blazing some Ohio gridiron history that will be tough to beat.

As a freshman last year, Anthony Rosselli was named a guard on the Associated Press' all-Ohio team. As a sophomore, he repeated this year. And if he makes the grade in his junior and senior years he'll be the only four-timer in history.

* * *

Only five feet, four inches tall, Rosselli looks more like a waterboy than a team regular, but he's 182 pounds of dynamite when it comes to breaking up opponents' offensive plays.

He was one of two repeaters selected by the coaches, writers and officials in ballots compiled by the Associated Press. Case's alert Mike Yurcheshen, who won an end position last season, retained his place in the lineup of nine seniors, a junior and one sophomore.

Three Western Reserve players were placed on the first team. Case, which saw Western Reserve wreck its unbeaten, untied season, got two positions along with Akron, which had a season as variable as the weather.

Chet Mutryn, Xavier halfback who led the state's individual scorers, and F. Szalay, Ohio U. center, moved up from last year's third string to the first team along with Andy Maluke, Akron's guard-captain, who was a 1940 second-stringer.

Case was the only one of the 20 Ohio conference schools to win an all-star berth. Al Borland of Western Reserve won a guard position as a sophomore last year but was beaten out by Maluke and Rosselli.

The selections:

M. Yurcheshen, Case, end.
R. Luther, W. Reserve, tackle.
A. Maluke, Akron, guard.
F. Szalay, Ohio U., center.
A. Rosselli, Youngstown, guard.
T. Macikas, Cincinnati, tackle.
P. Hudson, W. Reserve, end.
B. Flossie, Akron, back.
D. Sanzotta, W. Reserve, back.
C. Mutryn, Xavier, back.
R. Melreit, Case, back.

Second team—Ends, Evans, Muskingum, and Adams, Miami; tackles, Jamison, Ohio U. and Serdula, Muskingum; guards, A. Maluka, Akron, and Kuzmenko, Kent State; center, Rossi, Wittenberg; backs, Lavelle, Xavier, Wolfe, Heidelberg, Yoder, Bowling Green, and Fekete, Ohio U.

Third team—Ends, Keiter, Dayton, and Bordner, Bowling Green; tackles, Swoger, Baldwin-Wallace, and Robinson, Denison; guards, Skorich, Cincinnati, and Cellini, Heidelgerg; center, Freetag, Mt. Union; backs, Jones, Denison, Nash, Toledo, Knisley, Dayton, and Heinz, Ohio U.

Honorable mention:

Ends: Mallone, Ohio Northern; Trautman, Denison; Caton, Wittenberg; Schminky, Ohio U.

Tackles: Arrata, Xavier; Stoll, Case; Ihnat, Bowling Green; Semple, Ohio Northern; Oberer, Ohio Wesleyan.

Guards: Jannotti, Ohio Northern; Mauricourt, B. Wallace; Marcus, Ohio Northern; Myers, Denison; Nichols, Ohio Wesleyan; Schmidt, Dayton.

Centers: Svete, Case; Ryan, Dayton; Gill, Youngstown; Heller, Akron.

Backs: Wellner, B. Green; Kate, Wooster; Ditch, Wooster; Konker, Case; Warden, Youngstown; Szelagowski, Toledo; Himmler, Xavier; MacKinnon, O. Wesleyan; Herrick, Kenyon; McNulty, Rio Grande.

Martins Ferry Meets Libbey

TOLEDO —(INS)— The greatest year in the athletic history of Martins Ferry will be climaxed at 2 p. m. tomorrow when the untied, undefeated Martins Ferry Riders rumble over the Libbey stadium gridiron against Libbey's city championship high school eleven in a game sponsored by the Old Newsboys Goodfellow association to raise funds for needy school children.

The Riders, coached by Gomer Jones, All-American center at Ohio State in 1935, presented themselves in the early part of the football season as an unseasoned but promising gridiron squad and have, thus far, tallied 333 points while allowing their high school opposition only 19 points in ten games.

BOWLING MEETING.

Secretaries of all leagues in the Mansfield Bowling Association have been summoned to a special meeting at the Moose home Dec. 5, at 8:45 p. m. League presidents have been invited to attend as guests.

22,000 EXPECTED FOR PRO-COLLEGE CAGE TILT

CHICAGO — (INS) — Basketball's greatest crowd, possibly more than 22,000, will be in the Chicago stadium tonight for the second annual all-star basketball game, pitting Oshkosh, champion of the National league, against a picked crew of college aces.

The all-star collegians will be seeking their second straight win in the young series, having copped the inaugural last year from the Harlem Globe Trotters, 44 to 42, in a thrilling battle that went into two overtime periods.

Army, Navy Set for Play

Philadelphia Bulges With Gold Braiding.

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— This city came down today with its annual attack of Army-Navijities —and Brother, this year it's bad.

Hotels bulged at the seam, gold-braid was a penny a yard as the first of the 100,000 fans arrived to find out what happens when a two-ocean navy encounters a lightning-fast army rumored to be specially armor-plated for the occasion.

They'll get the answer tomorrow at Municipal Stadium, but at this hour, even the betting fraternity was split on the odds.

The weatherman bestowed his favor on the Army gray right off, promising a fast field built for the swift-breaking aerial and ground attack which has brought the Cadets victory in all but three games this season. Navy, bulwarked two deep in sheer manpower that bowled over everyone except Notre Dame and Harvard (a tie), hoped for a heavy field on which to launch its dreadnaughts.

This year the Cadets are hosts, meaning the gray-clad ranks will be first on the field with that precision march at 12:15 p. m. (EST). Five minutes later, to the tune of "Anchors Aweigh" will come the Navy Blue.

Fresh from a seclusion of a suburban country club, Navy took over Temple Stadium for a last workout. Major E. (Swede) Larson hasn't lost yet to Army as a player or coach.

* * *

Army, with virtually the same personnel which lost on the same field a year ago—but with a vastly more potent team now, was scheduled to work out the kinks after a daylight trip from West Point.

Spurgeon Leads Westie C-Loop

Spurgeon led the Westinghouse "C" league keglers at Colony alleys last night with a 523 total and high game of 195.

Bolesky rolled a 515 total and Bates 501.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT
(By Associated Press)

CAMDEN, N. J.—Tony Cisco Norristown N. J., and Georgie Miller, Philadelphia drew (8).

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Harry Teaney, 138, Cleveland, outpointed Tommy Spiegel, 135, Uniontown, Pa. (10).

Here's Lou With Family

New manager of the Cleveland Indians, Lou Boudreau, 24, is shown with his wife and daughter in their Champaign, Ill., home reading all about it in the newspapers. Boudreau signed a two-year contract as playing manager.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—Tony Zale, who fights Georgie Brams for the middleweight title tonight, once substituted for Joe Louis. When Joe was an amateur light-heavy he had to pull out of a match and Tony moved up a class to take a licking from Melio Bettina. . . . The Cincy Reds issued a special "December Meeting Edition" of their player roster. Looks like a case of "Here's what we've got. What do you offer?" . . . Steve Owen complains that there's been a shortage of good college ends this season.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

James D. Doyle, Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Vitt to Peck to Boudreau—two pappies and then a papoose. Often before the Bradley entry has been led by a colt—but usually at Churchill Downs."

FOOTBALL FRICASSEE.

Jack Kohler of Meadville, Pa., submits the following, not as an all-unpronounceable team, but as the starting lineup for Alliance college of Cambridge Springs: Pryzbek, Tryzskal, Pisarski, Bazranicki, Ostopowski, Przygocki, Koszarek, Smietana, Noa, Jurkowski, Snarski. . . . Must be that entangling alliance we've been warned against. . . . Duquesne's Dukes are so eager for the Sugar Bowl bid that they got their congressman working for it. . . . Missouri players reveal that they've had feelers from all five bowls but would prefer to visit Pasadena. . . . Dick Baxter, president of the Illinois Coaches association, is starting a movement to put another high school coach into Bob Zuppke's job.

SPORTPOURRI.

Mid-western writers are blasting Bill De Correvont for his blasts at Lynn Waldorf. They say the only reason he wasn't Northwestern's big star was because he didn't try hard enough. . . . Local angle on the appointment of Lou Boudreau as Cleveland manager is that Mickey Cochrane may be brought in as coach to absorb some of the bumps. Doesn't seem very reasonable to do it that way when the Indians could have had Mike as manager.

Lexington Rams Meet

Untried Madison Plays Once-Beaten Minute Men.

The untried Madison Rams take the floor tonight on the Ram court against the once-beaten Lexington Minute Men.

Entering Class A rank for the first time with this game, the Rams will be able to draw on the play of five lettermen from last year's team and a group of pushing sophomores.

* * *

On the other hand the Lexington squad has but one letterman Bill Ritchie, backed by players with some playing experience last year and one game under their belts so far this year.

Rams with letters from last year are Harold Hammer, Max Roberts, Delbert Poston, Ken Windsor and Bill Wynn.

BARONS CLIMB WITHIN ONE GAME OF LEAD

PHILADELPHIA —(UP)— The Cleveland Barons, defending American hockey league champions, climbed within one point of the league lead in the Western division today.

The Barons unleashed their most shattering attack of the season last night and overwhelmed the Philadelphia Rockets, 7 to 1. Herb Foster, who was with Philadelphia last season, scored three goals for the Barons.

BRADDOCK TO REFEREE

Former heavyweight champion James J. Braddock has gone to Halifax, Nova Scotia to referee a series of boxing matches.

All Big Ten Cagers Tough

Wisconsin Favored To Hold Crown This Year.

CHICAGO —(INS)— Wisconsin should make a strong bid to retain its Big Ten basketball title this season, but all of last year's first division teams will be dangerous, with Northwestern and Purdue almost certain to climb out of the second division, the annual prospectus issued by the conference service bureau indicated today.

An innovation for the 1941-42 season will be the adoption of 15-game conference schedules by all Big Ten teams. Each squad will play a home-and-home series with six conference teams and single games with each of the three other members, the prospectus disclosed. The teams to be met only in single games by any particular member will be rotated from season to season under the new plan.

A conference ruling limiting the schedule of members to 20 games has been lifted for the season to allow scheduling of contests with service teams at the Great Lakes Training Station and Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill., both of which will include several former Big Ten stars on their rosters.

Teams to date have reported a minimum of losses to the nation's armed forces. Most of the players who have left school for that purpose enlisted in the air corps or similar officer-training units, according to the prospectus.

With strong teams likely to come up at possibly seven of the 10 schools, the school winning the championship probably will rank as one of the favorites for the N. C. A. A. title, won last year by Wisconsin and the previous year by Indiana.

Abrams, Zale Bout Slated

To Settle Middleweight Title After 11 Years.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Proving that even boxing commissions, given enough time, can add one and one and get two, Georgie Abrams and Tony Zale tangle tonight in Madison Square Garden to clear up the middleweight mess that's been stewing for 11 years.

The sailor boy from Washington and the steel worker from Gary, Ind., toss their shots over the 15-round derby route. The winner, at long last, will be recognized as the sole world middleweight boss.

Promoter Mike Jacobs expects some 14,000 or 15,000 to turn up for the party.

Because Abrams is a "cutie" type of operator, he's a 5 to 7 betting favorite to out-gallop the rough-and-tumble midwestern mauler, who has stiffened five of the last half-dozen fellows brave enough to try his samples. This department also likes baby-faced Georgie, although he's never before traveled the derby route.

* * *

Stablemate of Ken Overlin, who was defeated by Billy Soose last summer for the New York version of the title, Abrams expects to bring the bauble back into the family. He got the shot when both Soose and Overlin found they couldn't eat their cake and have those middleweight figures, so they moved up into the light heavyweight hilarities. Zale already has the National Boxing association's blessing as head man.

FORMER YANKEE PITCHER TO ANNOUNCE RED TILTS

CINCINNATI —(AP)— Waite Hoyt, former New York Yankee pitcher and sports broadcaster for Station WOR, Newark, N. J., since 1937, will broadcast play-by-play account of the Cincinnati Reds baseball games for Station WKRC next season, Hulbert Taft, Jr., the station's general manager, announced.

All reserved seats for the Cincinnati Reds opener on April 14, 1942, have been sold although the opposing club has not yet been decided.

Printers Hike League Lead

Yuncker Sets Pace as B-Loop Gets Wood.

Mansfield Printing scored a 3-0 victory over M. & M. Service Station last night at Colony alleys to boost its Commercial "B" league-leading margin to two full games over Jones Chris-Craft, which scored a 2-1 win over Ringside.

* * *

The Printers chalked up high total for the league with 2796 on games of 904-932-960.

* * *

Paced by Leo Yunker with a 649 total on games of 235-221-190, the B-leaguers were collecting plenty of wood last night as seven 600 scores went in the books. Others were: Ed Henrich, 629, Doolittle, 606, F. Vogel, 607, C. Rinehart, 626, Al Stirtzinger, 628, and C. Gimble, 606.

Henrich and Doolittle tied Yuncker for high game at 235.

Texas Trips Aggie Hopes

Texas A. & M. Thrown From Unbeaten Ranks.

NEW YORK —(AP)— The fading football season, which has had players, coaches and fans going in circles since last September, is facing its last big day with the problem of producing opponents for most of the Bowl contests and settling several family feuds.

* * *

Yesterday's second edition of the Thanksgiving holiday furnished a handful of backyard tussles including one major scrap in which once-mighty Texas returned to form and kicked Texas A. and M. right out of the ranks of the unbeaten and untied by a score of 28-0.

Another southwest entry, tail-end Arkansas, kept its season from being a total flop by whipping Tulsa, its traditional Turkey day rival and champion of the Missouri Valley, 13-6. It snapped a seven-game winning streak for the Oklahomans and a four-game losing streak for Arkansas.

In the east, Muhlenberg and Franklin and Marshall came up with last-round decisions which divided the Eastern Pennsylvania conference championship three ways. Muhlenberg downed Gettysburg, 28-13, and F. and M. nosed out Ursinus, 14-13, leaving all except Ursinus tied for the title.

Tomorrow's headliner is that annual classic at Philadelphia between a talented navy team and a scrappy army eleven. The Southeastern conference title will be at stake in a struggle between Mississippi and Mississippi State, with both looking forward to a holiday trip. Vanderbilt, another once-beaten club that would like to adorn a bowl, takes on Tennessee. Tulane and Louisiana State collide in a game between the two teams that have blown hot and cold.

Georgia seeks to sharpen its bowl-ing chances against Georgia Tech and Clemson tackles Auburn.

On the Pacific coast, the search continues for a conference champ and Western representative in the Rose Bowl with Stanford meeting California and Oregon tackling Oregon State. Washington ties into Southern Cal.

* * *

Coach Homer Norton of the Texas Aggies stated emphatically today that his team would play in a bowl game Jan. 1 despite the loss to Texas.

Norton said seven members of the Sugar Bowl committee conferred with him yesterday.

Texas remained mum on the Bowl situation but it is known that the Orange Bowl would like to have the Longhorns.

Tunney Rates Dempsey Tops

Says Man He Defeated Was Greatest of All.

SAN FRANCISCO —(INS)— Courage, fortitude, resistance and condition are the prime requisites of a boxer, in the opinion today of Gene Tunney, U. S. Marine Corps.

Tunney aired his views on boxing at a Navy luncheon recently at San Francisco's Press club during his tour to set up a physical training program for the U. S. navy.

"Jack Dempsey was the greatest heavyweight champion of all time," said Tunney. "Only Bob Fitzsimmons could approach him, but Bob at best was a middleweight, although he held the heavyweight title.

* * *

"Dempsey was a vital destructive fighter. He had great coordination and never became confused in the ring," was Tunney's tribute to the man he defeated twice in championship battles.

"When Dempsey had a man down his only aim was to 'kill' him in the shortest time possible.

"He accomplished this every time but once," smiled Tunney, and his audience laughed with him at the memory of that long count on a September night in 1927.

"I believe that Dempsey could have whipped Joe Louis, because I think Dempsey had more resistance to a punch than Louis.

"But, gee, how Louis can hit! There never has been a harder puncher in the ring than Joe Louis."

Max Baer in the audience, Tunney recognized Max's ability as a boxer, but explained that Maxie never again came up to the night he knocked out Max Schmeling in 1933.

Lou Nova is just a novice, in Tunney's opinion. He said he had warned Nova's handlers that the boy was not ready for big time fighting but that his advice was ignored.

"There have been some great fighters in the game. John L. Sullivan was the most colorful, with the possible exception of Max Baer. Jess Willard won the championship accidentally from Jack Johnson, who had spent some years doing things a boxer should not do. But I don't believe that Johnson took a dive. Men don't stay 26 rounds if they intend to dive. It looks better when they get it over early.

"The smart fighter quits for good when he is through. If they start making comebacks after they have reached an end, nature takes its toll. A man can't continue to take punches indefinitely."

THE TIDE IS STRICTLY A FOURTH QUARTER CLUB

UNIVERSITY, Ala.—(AP)—Alabama, in its first eight games, scored more points in the fourth quarter than in any other period. The Tide rang up 72 points in the fourth, 55 in the third, 39 in the second and 47 in the first quarter in those contests.

PARKING BLAMED FOR GAS WASTE

VANCOUVER, B. C. (U.P.)—The city traffic commission has filed under the heading of impertinence a letter from a citizen.

The writer suggested abolition of one hour parking in downtown Vancouver because the regulation led to "the silly occupation of forcing the cars to re-shuffle themselves every 60 minutes leading to a colossal waste of gasoline."

SPECULATIONS REMAIN TIMID ON STOCK MARKET

U. S.-Japanese Tension, Labor Doubts, and War News Restrain Bidders.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Speculative operations in today's stock market again were of the timid sort and leading issues shifted over a slightly irregular trail.

Scattered favorites were able to tack on modest advances at the start, dealings were slow and minor declines were plentiful near the second hour. Numerous new 1941 lows were registered.

Business developements were helpful, brokers said, but rising U. S.-Japenese tension, together with further labor doubts and indefinite war bulletins, tended to restrain buyers. Tax selling also remained as a handicap.

Holders of merchandising shares found some encouragement in the Dun & Bradstreet review estimating this week's retail sales for the country as a whole topped the comparable period a year ago by 14 to 18 per cent.

Noted also was the forecast of the commerce department that forthcoming Christmas spending would increase about 20 per cent over the 1940 Yule season. The department estimated dollar volume of holiday distribution probably would hit a new peak at about $6,000,000,000, or approximately $1,000,000,000 over last year.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Building Permit—Theo Theesen obtained a building permit at city hall today to erect a seven-room frame and stone residence, costing $9,500 at 600 Brae Burn road.

Posts Bond—Victor E. Cooper of New Castle, Pa., was arrested by state highway patrolmen last night on U. S. Route 42 on a charge of operating an overloaded truck. He is to be given a court hearing later.

Firemen Called—Fire Company 1 answered a call at 39½ Baldwin avenue Thursday at 7:46 p. m. when a smoking furnace at the property, owned and occupied by C. L. McClellan, prompted the family to send in an alarm.

Speeder Fined—Erwin Wilfred Wolf, 85½ West Sixth street, was fined $10 and costs by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in Municipal court today on a charge of driving a truck at excessive speed on West Sixth street.

Scouts Hold Party—Boy Scout Troop No. 9, under Scoutmasters Carl Stough and Raymond Kline will hold their fourth annual chili supper and program for their fathers tonight at Bowman street school, Scout Executive Floyd Dent said today.

Conduct Sale—The Ladies Aid society of the Salem Evangelical church at Butler will hold a farm market in the Wise building at Butler beginning at 1 p. m. tomorrow. Proceeds from the sale will go into the society's activity fund, it was announced.

Board of Health—The Mansfield Board of Health will meet at 5 p. m. Monday in the health office at City Hall instead of 8:30 p. m., Dr. W. B. Wild, health commissioner, said today. Richland County Board of Health is scheduled to meet Saturday, Nov. 29, at 1:30 p. m.

Extinguisher Lost—Mansfield police department lost a quart-size Fyr Fyter extinguisher off one of the department motorcycles furnishing escort to the troop convoy that passed through the city Wednesday afternoon. Police Chief Meade K. Bates today requested that the finder return the extinguisher to the department.

Told Of Death—Friends in Mansfield today learned of the death in Toledo yesterday of C. R. Kerstetter, former resident of Mansfield. Mr. Kerstetter, a Pennsylvania railroad employe, left Mansfield in 1933, moving to Toledo. Funeral services are to be held in Toledo at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow.

Cited To Appear—George Rhodes, Crestline, was cited to appear tomorrow in Mansfield municipal court on a charge of reckless driving after becoming involved in a sideswipe auto accident on U. S. Route 30-S, five miles west of Mansfield last night, with a car driven by James B. Herd of Crestline, according to the state highway patrol.

Asks New Trial—Atty. Joseph A. Bayer, counsel for the plaintiff in a $13,125 damage suit heard early this week in common pleas court, had filed a motion for a new trial today, charging errors in the admission of certain evidence for the defense. A jury rejected the claim of Margaret Lee, plaintiff in the action against Ollin W. Allen, Pique truck owner. The suit involved a fatal traffic accident near Mansfield.

Announces A Big SALE

at his farm on the Bellville-Johnsville Road
MONDAY, DEC. 1
Come to the sale . . . come as early as you can, because there will be special music, entertainment and a delicious lunch served by the ladies of Pleasant Grove church. Now, here is what goes on sale: A full line of Farm Machinery, most of it in brand new condition. Cattle, hogs, sheep, horses, alfalfa, hay, clover hay, corn, some household goods, 1940 Chrysler 4-door sedan with fluid drive in first class shape.
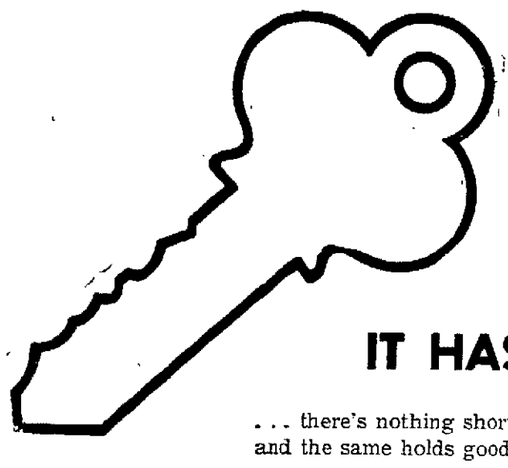
Everything must positively be sold. E. J. France is auctioneer; Lloyd Daely is clerk; Mrs. W. W. Willis is cashier.
Remember the location—Honeywald Farm, sometimes called Dean Farm, 4 miles south of Lexington, 4 miles west of Bellville, and 4 miles east of Johnsville on the Bellville-Johnsville road. Sale begins promptly at 1 p. m., on December 1.



IT HAS TO FIT
. . . there's nothing short of a 100% fit with a key—and the same holds good with Siegenthaler's Shoes.
. . . we not only stock plenty of sizes, but our shoes are made over the best proportioned lasts in the country—and our salesmen have had the right kind of experience with the right kind of shoes to find the answer to your particular needs.
. . . it all adds up to the fact that you won't have to "break in" our shoes. You can step into a new pair and shove off.
